

COKEVILLE

RAMPOLI

1980

As the decades pass, Cokeville schools have seen a great many changes. We've witnessed growth and expansion in every facet of education. With the many changes, we wonder if anything remains as it was in the glorified past. Even though the names and faces have changed between the covers of the Rambouillet, the name and its heritage remain.

According to several oldtimers, Cokeville's mascot was once the Shepherd. Since Cokeville was once the sheep capital of the world, this title was appropriate, and carried its own brand of pride. For some reason the mascot was changed to the Panther in the 1930's.

The yearbook was originally called the Shepherd, corresponding with the athletic mascot. But then it was changed to the Rambouillet, because it was a "fancier name."

Several times since then, various groups have suggested that the name be changed to coordinate with the new mascot. But we remain the Rambouillet, (ram bō lā) and carry the name with pride (even though no one on the staff can spell it.)

HOMECOMING 1979

Homecoming week began with a change of tradition. The royalty was announced on the Friday before Homecoming instead of the day of the game; thus allowing the king and queen to reign over all of the week's activities. Gwen Johns was chosen for an unprecedented second reign as queen and Scott Petersen presided as king.

The week of Homecoming had an unusual schedule. On Monday the theme was Sock'em and Sucker. Everyone consumed large quantities of lollipops and wore colorful socks. Tuesday the motif was Hats and Boots. The hats worn were of all shapes, shades and ethnic backgrounds. Worn with the hats were boots of all walks of life. Wednesday was Clash Day (a utopia for the tacky dresser). And on Thursday everyone did their best to sport a football jersey. On each of these days there was a pep rally, and a bizarre contest to test the patience and ingenuity of the contestants. Thursday evening the traditional snakedance and bonfire were held. Friday ended all the anticipation with the Homecoming assembly and game. Although the score was not in our favor, the team played with enthusiasm and Panther pride.

Some of the librarians did double duty, filling positions as both classroom aids and librarians. While Carol Petersen's job centered on the library, Mrs. Bennion tutored for Special Services, and assisted in the library, too. Mrs. Genera Robison and Mrs. Weston worked with individual students in the old 5th grade room as a part of the Special Services program. Mrs. Janell Dayton taught the kindergarten in the morning, while taking half of the first grade in the afternoon. She, too, helped in the library.

Holmes Named All-State

The 1979 Football season ended seemingly unsettled. The Panthers finished play with a commendable overall record of 6-2. But their 2-2 conference record fell short of Big Piney's 4-0 conference tally. Even though Piney's season record of 4-4 failed to measure up to the Panther's, their conference record carried them to Regionals — where the Panthers wanted to be.

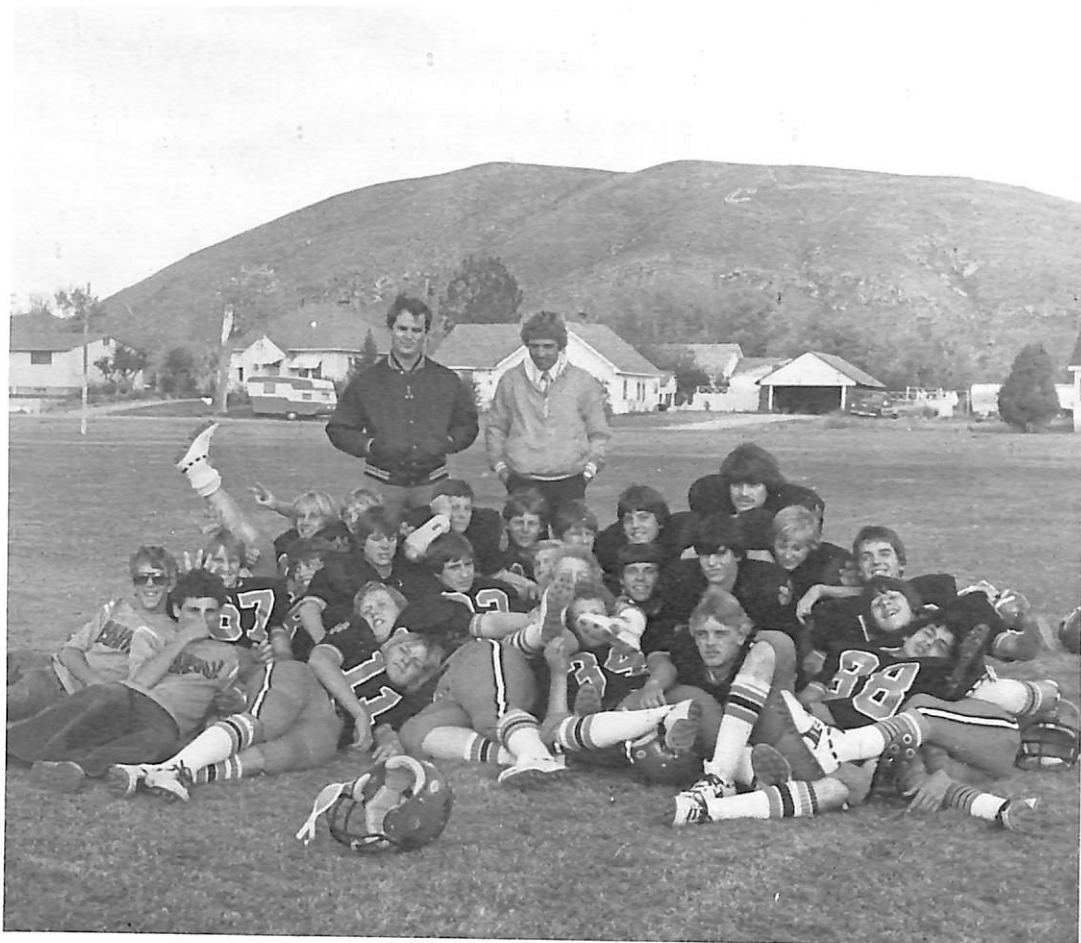

Named to the All-conference first team were Jerre Holmes, safety and kicker; Bill Johnson, defensive end and offensive guard; Scott Petersen, running back; and Monte Anderson, line-backer. Jerre Holmes received All-State Honors at the safety position.

The varsity girls had a good season until they got a regional tournament which was held in Cokeville for the first time. Their first match of the tournament was against Farson-Eden, and they were defeated two out of three sets. Farson-Eden then played Morrow for the championship, which Morrow won, putting Cokeville out of a trip to state.

The senior girls will be greatly missed next year as the coach will have to replace seven girls. These senior girls have been an important part of girls' athletics since their freshman year.

The J.V. girls had a good season also. They showed some good prospects for seasons to come. Their record was 50% with 7 wins and 7 losses. The volleyball program in Cokeville will be very competitive in the near future.

Panthers Take State

¹ Cokeville High School's basketball season started out with a lot of question marks. After replacing four graduating seniors, the team had tough roads against some of the top class B schools in Wyoming. The team never gave in to any competition, which is a trade mark of Coach Johnson's career. The stiff competition and the team's character, culminated in a tremendous finale; the capturing of the Class C State Basketball Championship. Congratulations to a great team, coaches, and loyal fans.

The wrestlers had a fairly good season. The team was plagued with injuries all year. Two injured knees and two injured shoulders slowed the team down considerably. They attended four tournaments and hosted one of their own. Coach Mitchell did a good job of preparing for the Cokeville Tournament. It was the most organized of all the tournaments.

Coach Mitchell took four boys to state in which Mike Teichert placed second. Mike was the outstanding wrestler of the year while Bill Johnson was selected as the most improved wrestler.

CLASSES

Freshmen Show Disney's Apple Dumpling Gang

The freshmen started out the year by taking third place in the Homecoming float contest. Their first money making project was a movie. They planned a car wash for a second project, but because of the snow (May 15) they cancelled it. They had two class parties: the first was a pizza party and the second consisted of playing volleyball and basketball, eating pancakes, and swimming. Their first year in high school was quite successful.

1. Nanette Dana enjoys pizza parties. 2. Lorie Pope and Roxzanne Mitchell play table tennis at a class party. 3. Freshmen advisors were Mr. Forrest and Mr. Miller.

The sophomores lived-up the 1979-80 school year. For their first class party they went to Montpelier, Idaho, to bowl and to see the movie, Rocky II. For their second class party they stayed in Cokeville, and played basketball and volleyball; afterwards they went to Lance Fuller's house to eat pizza. They had two money-making projects: one was a Homecoming breakfast, and the second, a raffle of a bookcase and a quilt.

The sophomore class officers also did a lot to make their 10th year in school successful. The officers include: Wayne Harmon, President; Debbie Andersen, Vice-President; Lance Fuller, Secretary; JoAnn Deromedis, Representative.

Juniors Have a Blast!

The Juniors had a super year. They started it off with a class party to Bear Lake, water skiing. Then they had the first place float in the Homecoming Parade. After that they had a terrific Junior Prom held in the New Gym, so there would be more room for everyone. Coach Johnson and Mrs. Chournos were their advisors who helped them have a successful year. The Juniors are expecting to top off their high school career with an even better Senior year.

Little boys playing kick the can,
intent, serious, men.
little girls with dolls and rings,
we've grown up to more serious things.

we filled the playground with laughter and in time, brought it indoors.
the gym, the halls, the classrooms,
still echo those sounds and more.

we lightened this room with music,
then at pep-rallie it throbbed with screams,
and with the silence that echoed at the death of a friend, blend silently. What does it mean?

the future of mankind, america, our town,
we'll lead, we'll follow, we'll grow, decisions good, bad, right, and wrong, determine the progress we'll show.

the glory of God is intelligence.
we'll seek this in various places.
through college, trade tech, and marriage we'll come, the past leaves but traces.

we'll march now in a slow two-step,
in time, we'll learn to run.
from there we'll sail and someday fly.
Nos Peto ad Pugno.

Held near Christmas, the traditional Senior Ball was decorated in metallic red and silver. Mr. Miller sang the theme "Ice Castles," accompanied by Joanna Petersen, with Sally Forrest on flute. King David Wilde crowned ReNae Taylor, Queen.

The October trip to BYU to do research paper was longer, giving the students three days in the Harold B. Lee Library. Along with the usual library studies, they had the chance to visit some classes and talk to professors on campus. As usual, they also enjoyed some roller skating and shopping.

In January, seventeen seniors visited the Utah State Pen, returning home with only sixteen. Seniors Lance Kingston, Kathy Egbert, Betty Hatfield, and Pam Burton graduated after the first semester, going on to jobs and marriage.

Graduation in May came none too soon for some, while for others it was altogether too early. Eighteen Seniors marched at Graduation, lead by Kristen Teichert, Salutatorian, and Pam Neumann, Valedictorian. Colors for graduation were white gowns with orange corsages. Eleven or more seniors plan to go on to college.

CLUBS & ORGANIZATIONS

FHA Chapter Holds Monthly Meetings

1. Chapter Mother Carol Petersen pins up the hem of a dress in Clothing Construction class. 2. Nanette Dana, Karen Wilde, and Teyana Robinson prepare root beer for the FHA Sadie Hawkins Dance. 3. Mrs. Dayton has been the chapter adviser for many years. 4. Teyana Robinson, president, and Becky Petersen, vice-president, lead the chapter at an evening meeting. 5. Barbara Harmon shows her sewing ability. 6. Demonstrating his culinary talents, Mr. Birch fries tortillas in the Home Ec. room.

Cokeville's FHA group became an active chapter, meeting once a month. Each month, a different activity was planned for the meeting.

At Christmas time, the chapter presented programs at the Senior Citizen's Center in town and at the Rest Home in Montpelier. They also put on the traditional Kindergarten Christmas party. In November the girls fixed afternoon snacks for the grade school. February's activity was the Sadie Hawkins dance. Skin care was the subject of March's meeting, and in April, the theme was communication.

Keeping with this year's state theme, "You're Not Getting Older, You're Getting Better," the group named a Chapter Grandmother each month. Carol Petersen served as Chapter Mother for the year.

The group was lead by Teyana Robinson as president. Becky Petersen was vice-president, while Debbie Anderson filled the secretary position. JoAnn Deromedis served as vice-president of Encounters, a program of personal development for the individual chapter members.

The Pep Club started the year off by selling concessions and lifting the spirit of the Panther football team. Homecoming was their specialty, with decorations in the hall and the traditional store window contest. The winning window was Archie's, decorated by the Cheerleaders. The Pep Club gave their full support in Homecoming activities too.

The basketball season was supported also. More concessions were sold which paid for a trip to the Lyman game for the club. Although the Pep Club didn't take a bus to the State Boys' Basketball Tournament, the girls that did find a ride were given $22.00 from Pep Club funds to help with expenses.

1. Miss Lynn Fuger, Pep Club advisor, seems to agree with the club, at one of the meetings. 2. The Pep Club listens intently as the cheerleaders give some instructions. 3. Stacey Fergusen, Paige Fuez, and Angie Erickson show interest in one of the meetings. 4. The Pep Club waits anxiously for the game to start. 5. ReNae Taylor, President, and Pam Burton, vice-President, give instructions to the Pep Club. 6. Debbie Andersen, Lisa Pope, Hollie Ferrin, GayLyn Vandermuss, and Judy Stocks, worked hard to contribute to the club.

Cheerleaders Spread Spirit

The cheerleaders worked hard to keep the spirit growing at CHS. During games and matches, they cheered with pride.

Early in the year the varsity cheerleaders sold Panther shirts for a money making project. They also sold programs at the Regional Volleyball Tournament which was held in Cokeville. The junior varsity cheerleaders had a successful record hop.

On Thursday night of Homecoming week, the burning of the C brought a big crowd to yell with, and the cheerleaders brought the spirit and loud voices to make the night a success.

1. The junior varsity cheerleaders were Angie Erickson, Paige Feuz, Anne Dayton, and Lisa Pope. 2. The wrestling cheerleaders were Diane Petersen, Cheryl Peterson, Kristen Teichert, and Anne Dayton. 3. The varsity cheerleaders were Gwen Johns, Diane Petersen, Debbie Andersen, and Cheryl Peterson. 4. Gwen Johns was head cheerleader.

Skiers Enjoy Third Year

Cokeville skiers enjoyed skiing at Pine Creek Ski Area for the third year. There was also a large enrollment in the grade school ski program again this year. The program was set up last year by the principal, Max Excell, through Bob Schluter, the manager of the ski area. The kids left school at 2 o'clock every Monday to participate in ski school taught by instructors from Utah State University.

1. Jerre Holmes makes the best of his first day of skiing this year. 2. Charlie Dayton was one of the many grade school kids in the ski program. 3. Scott Petersen catches some air. 4. Student Officers Served Well

The Student Council had a successful year. They sponsored many activities for the student body, such as, the Halloween movie, Christmas movie, and the school dances.

The three top officers served very well and taught the new members their responsibilities.

Mr. Excell, the Student Council sponsor worked very hard with this group, helping whenever asked. He stood behind the Student Council at all times.

Their activities have broadened and they always had a great time along with a lot of hard work.

1. Student Body Officers: Diane Petersen, Secretary; Jerre Holmes, Vice President; Kristen Teichert, President. 2. Student Council ponders an important decision. 3. The yearbook staff did their best to make the 1980 yearbook the greatest and most memorable ever!

After learning the basics of putting a yearbook together, the staff made the annual trip to the journalism Conference in Powell, Wyoming. The Conference consisted of workshops on the production of newspapers and yearbooks on Monday, with a banquet that evening; an assembly on Tuesday during which the awards for last years newspapers and yearbooks were given. Pam Neumann's story and picture on the rejuvenation of our stained glass window received a special citation. JR. HIGH BASKETBALL

The eighth grade basketball team had some problems during the year. They were always a few points short. They did breeze by Manila, Utah during the Cokeville Lions Club Tournament. They played very well at times but they could not keep up the good play.

The seventh grade team did very well. Coach Metcalfe said he is excited for these boys to become eighth graders.

JR. HIGH FOOTBALL

The Jr. High football team did well with only four eighth graders on the squad. The team spirit was good even with a losing record of 0-4-1. The players worked hard and had some good play execution that will prepare them for high school. Coach Metcalfe was pleased with the dedication of the players.

Volleyball Initiated

Cokeville's first junior high volleyball team was organized. The program involved a series of tri-meets: at Mountain View with Lyman, at Pinedale with Jackson, and at Kemmerer. The girls ended the season at the Lyman Invitational Tournament with the season's record of 2-3 for the 7th graders and 1-4 for the 8th graders. Miss Fuger was head coach with Mrs. Chournos as assistant coach. The teams' manager was Carolyn Buckley.

Jr. High Grapplers Learn Holds

This year's grapplers had three main objectives, according to Coach Moore. To learn, have fun, and hopefully win were of primary importance. After a building year, Coach Moore talks about the season by saying, "Two out of three ain't bad."

The team experienced varied success at winning. Four hastily scheduled matches proved to be tough for the small team. But according to Coach Moore, the kids were a great bunch to work with, and they had much success with learning and having fun.

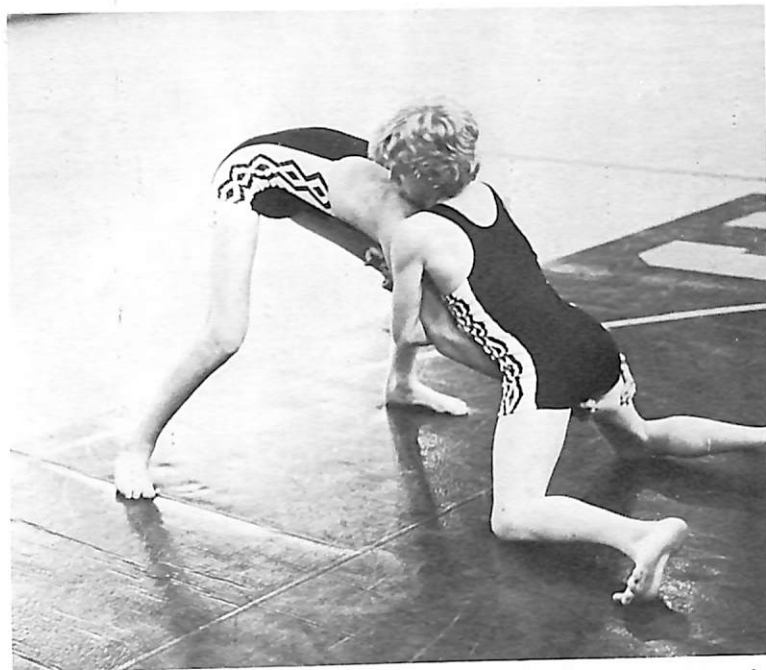

1. Janine Neumann plays first trumpet enthusiastically. 2. Kenny Petersen leads the percussion section. 3. Junior high band members warm up for class. 4.
