Mike, David and other senior classmates show football state championship trophy

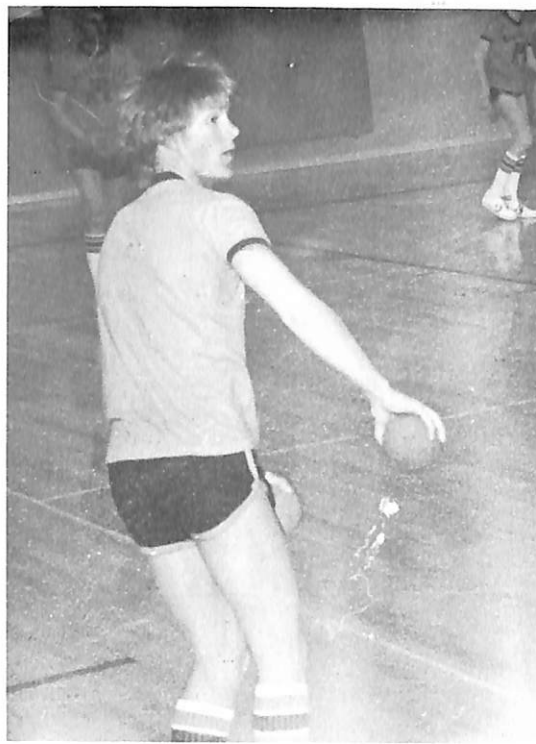

Mike, Dave and team as they accept the runner-up state champion basketball trophy.

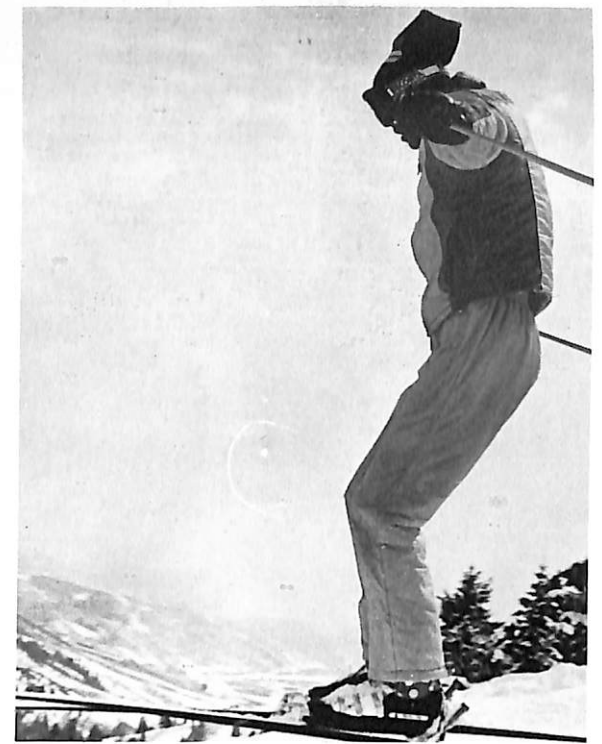

David Lannie Deromedis.

David enjoyed the slopes.

Mike was a super killer-ball player

Mike loved to ski.

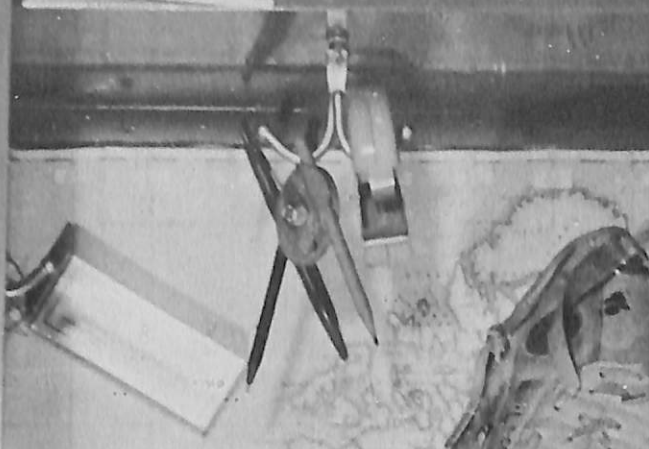

Dave enjoyed being covered with that Panther Pride.

As a yearbook staff we decided to dedicate this year's annual to two 1979 Cokeville high school graduates.

Micheal Lee Allen, 20, died Monday, July 6, in the St. Benedict's Hospital in Ogden Utah as a result of injuries received in an automobile accident June 27, near Cokeville. He was born May 22, 1961, in Montpelier, Idaho to Don A. and Betty Nostaja Allen. At the time of his death, he was employed by the Wyoming State Highway Department. Mike attended Cokeville Schools where he participated in basketball, football, and wrestling. Mike received the citizenship award in the 8th grade.

David Lannie Deromedis, 20, died Tuesday, July 21, 1981 in the Westchester County Hospital in Westchester Penn. of causes related to an automobile accident June 25. David was born November 15, 1960, to Joe and Shirlee Deromedis in Montpelier, Idaho. He attended Cokeville Schools where he was outstanding in leadership and sports. He was named to the all-state basketball and football teams. He was Cokeville High School student-body president and salutatorian of his graduating class. At the time of his death, he was a missionary for the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day-Saints, acting as a district leader in the Pennsylvania, Philadelphia Mission.

As classmates, David and Mike did a lot of things together. They were both involved in music, sports, drama, and many other activities. They also enjoyed the outdoors. Skiing, hunting, and fishing were a big part of their lives. During their senior year they played on the state runner-up basketball team and the state champion football team.

Homecoming 1982 Better Than Ever

Homecoming Week! It isn't humanely possible to do so much in seven days, but we did it. In true Panther style the difficult is a cinch, and the impossible just takes a little longer.

Was Monday slave day or sore muscle day? Moaning was heard due to running extra laps, giving piggy-back rides, and crawling on the floor. The girls enjoyed a first chance to get the guys but the boys didn't go without revenge. Everyone caught the spirit of T-shirt and lollipop day. The night activities included the FHA banquet for the team and the big pep rally on Main Street.

Rain couldn't spoil our fun at the bonfire and pep rally, and the messages on the street told the world about Panther Power. Two very honored guests, Mr. and Mrs. Delgado came from Monterey, Mexico just to join us.

Mr. Robicheau displayed his charms as master of ceremonies at the assembly Friday morning, and so did members of the football team as they pinned corsages onto pep club girls. The Freshman class learned from experience how this is done without creating a scene. Freshman Rick Excell put it this way: "I was real lucky. I had two girls to pin flowers on. I'm glad it's over with."

Rain again threatened to disrupt the plans for the day but Panthers raged on. The band marched through puddles, and soggy napkins fell off floats, but the show went on. Steve Excell and Debbie Andersen, our king and queen, got the royal treatment. They rode in a dry Corvette down Main Street.

Although the football team didn't win their game, they fought with pride. The varsity volleyball team won and the JV also fought tough to bring Cokeville another victory. Panthers proved themselves to be just what the theme claimed: Better Than Ever!

Here for 543 Years?

Bette Rentfro has been a part of Cokeville School for 22 years. But, she says that it is closer to "543."

When asked if she was getting tired of the routine, she replied, "I like it here. I even like most of the kids . . . most of the time."

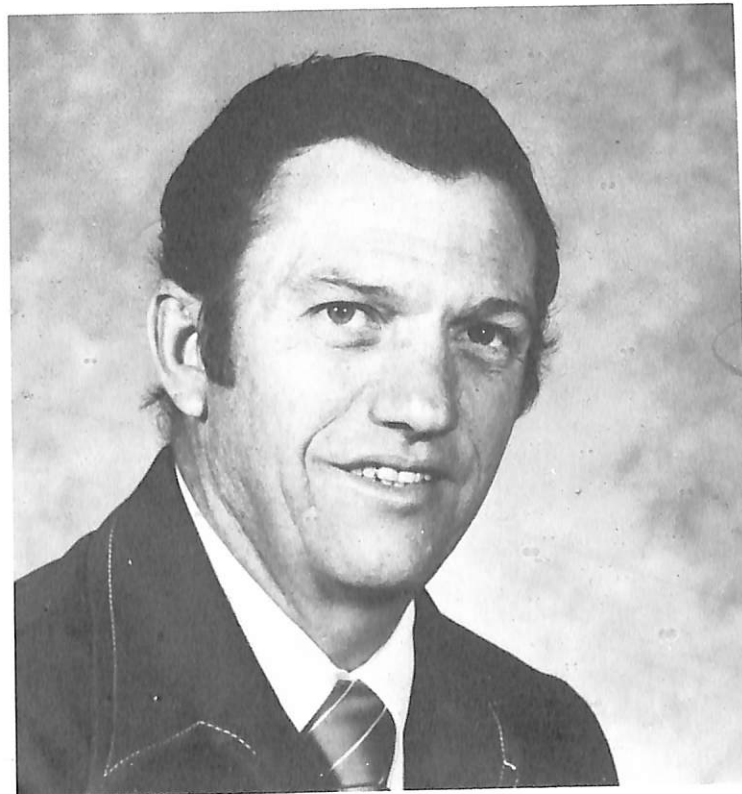

Mrs. Rentfro has a variety of duties that are essential to keeping order. They include making extra announcements, paging, typing, answering phones and selling lunch tickets, just to name a few.

$5 Million; Time Change

The school board held a bond election in March, 1982 for over 5 million dollars. This money will be used to build a 1.5 million dollar elementary school in Cokeville; a new junior high school in Star Valley, and additions on two elementary schools in Star Valley.

The board decided, after discussion, to change our football game times from 1:30 p.m. to 3:00 p.m. This was done so that afternoon classes could still be held.

Mr. Robicheau has accomplished the amazing! He has made math easier to understand, sometimes even enjoyable. "He's a very good teacher with a great sense of humor," says freshman, Natalie Dayton. In classes such as "Math for the Real World," students learned details of filling out income tax forms, and math labs helped explain algebraic theorems. Tonya Johnson says, "Math is tough, but fun, and I hope Mr. Robicheau stays here to teach until I graduate." Every class is wishing the same thing, so hopefully, he'll be here even longer.

Mr. Forest is always hard at work.

There are some classes that seem to especially appeal to only certain people and one of these is science. The challenge of the teacher is to make it interesting for everyone. By incorporating field trips, dissecting, microscope observation and other various experiments, Mr. Forrest has tried to spark a curiosity in the students. When Edward Delgado was asked his opinion of science he answered, "Oh man! No, really I like Biology. It's fun, it's a new experience." Whether it's biology or general science, Mr. Forrest helps students learn about the world around them.

Those who love English and those who don't both agree that language studies were made vitally interesting by Mr. Birch. Many who didn't expect to understand anything about languages realized they learned something in spite of themselves. When asked if she liked English Literature, Andra Birch replied, "Hmmm. Considering who the teacher is, I'd better say yes." Paige Feuz summarized the feelings of many seniors when she said, "I hate the research papers. It's hard work! But I do love English, especially the way Mr. Birch teaches it." Mr. Birch teaches English and Spanish with enthusiasm. In every class, he combines his own kind of humor with the special lesson he has in mind.

SOCIAL STUDIES

“What do you say about Mr. Metcalfe? He’s helpful to the students; he cares,” says Angie Erickson. Mr. Metcalfe has done many unique things to get his students interested in the world’s past and present. The eighth grade civics students stepped back into the 1900’s by choosing where they would live and what trade they would go into. Things like this have provoked students into learning about a subject many people complain is boring. Not in Mr. Metcalfe’s class. Stacey Ferguson summed it up when she said, “He is a pretty dedicated teacher, but his jokes can be kind of different.”

HOME EC

With every Home Ec. class comes a lot of confusion caused by a missing crepe pan, a sunken cake, a broken needle or a missing pattern piece. To get things under control would certainly not be easy. For those reasons, a Home Ec. teacher must be willing to help everyone to be aware of everything that is happening. Mrs. Dayton does this and more. Senior Gaylyn Vandermus says, "She's willing to help whenever she can, and she's a good sport." Tonya Johnson summed up just about everyone's feelings towards Mrs. Dayton when she said, "She's a good teacher, and I have a lot of respect for her teaching school for so many years."

BUSINESS

Business classes can be frustrating. The premiere of the computer class added new meaning to that word. But typing, shorthand, computer, and accounting students all agreed that Mr. Taylor really knows what he's teaching and how to get it across. Lisa Pope said it best: "Mr. Taylor understands kids and he really tries to help in any way he can. He makes business classes interesting and challenging. Most of all he remembers what it was like to be a kid." Many students admire him, as GayLynn Vandermus states, "He pushes students hard, but for the better. Bringing out the best in them."

During typing, Kathy Nate really gets involved.

Hard Work, Plus a Few Surprises

Two new arrivals were readily accepted by the shop classes: a cut off saw (used to trim metal) and a mig welder, which uses a roll of wire, instead of welding rods.

In advanced arc welding, David Larson and Wayne Harmon made fifth wheel trailers. It was a big project that proved to be quite interesting.

In the wood shop, various projects rolled out as usual.

"Mr. Dana expects a lot from his students. He is a fun teacher and too big to give any guff to," commented Kevin Weston.

There are a few interesting things that happen in the shop besides everyday work. An example of this is the day Tom McAfee had to spend the rest of the day after first period shop class without a shirt. Tom got water on his shirt so he placed it on the heater to dry. His shirt got caught by the motor of the heater and he tried to pull it out. When he finally managed to pull it out, it was nothing more than a greasy shred of cloth.

Bye Bye Birdie Flies

Cooperation and a lot of hard work resulted in the success of the musical, Bye Bye Birdie. Mr. Glenn Birch directed the musical which was presented on Nov. 6-7 to capacity crowds. Many students had the opportunity to learn different styles of singing and dancing. Although this year's musical was not taken on the road, the home audience thought the students did an outstanding job.

March in Step

Yearbook's Easy

"I just thought I would take an easy class", said Scott Ferguson. But after the first couple of days his tone had changed. Trying to think of articles and finding pictures were just a few of the dilemmas that befell staff members at deadline time. Attempting to cover everything, the yearbook staff sacrifices their Saturdays, the deer hunt, family outings, and hot dates. "There isn't an activity we haven't been to," emphasized Shauna Larson.

Producing the yearbook photography wasn't just a matter of snapping pictures. They had to be set up, taken, proofed, picked out, and printed to the advisor's approval before they could be put on a page. Of all the thousands of pictures taken only a selected number make it into the yearbook. Though photography isn't thought of as a dangerous profession, it can be. Being run over by football players, hit by basketballs, thrown in the swimming pool, and knocked down by referees were just a few of the other problems of staff members.

Photography isn't the only thing that has to be done for the yearbook. Trying to get information out of some people is a job in itself. Then you have to write it in an interesting way so people will read it. Designing the pages and making everything fit properly is another thing. And the list goes on and on.

This year's staff was young. Only three people returned from last years staff. With the advisors' help everyone learned quickly how to do his job.

The job of filling the position of assistant editor brought on a different situation. The position was filled by Lorie Pope, the younger sister of the editor, Lisa Pope.

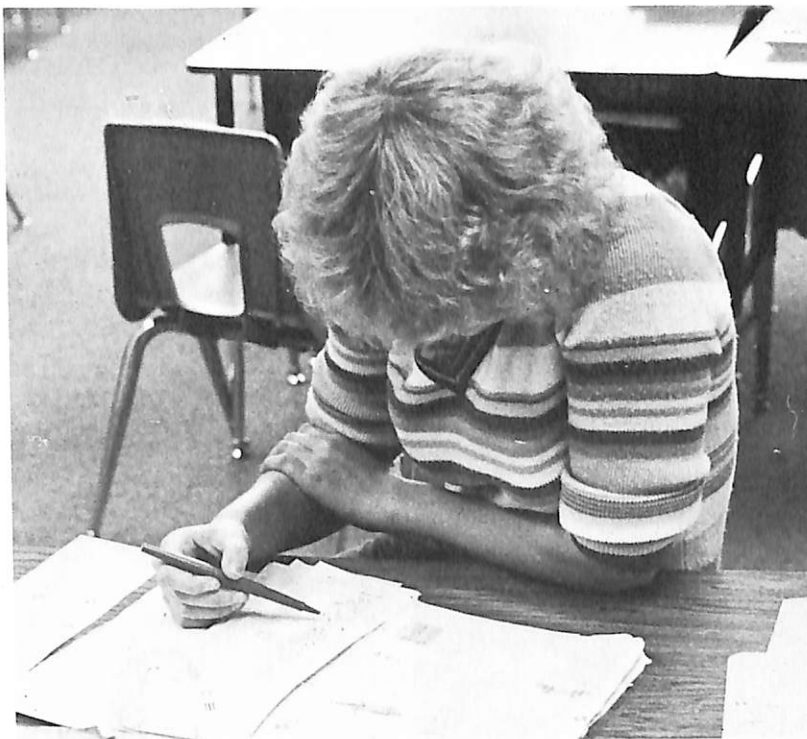

It was not an unusual sight to see Lisa Pope, editor, working on the yearbook.

F. T. A.

The Future Teachers Association was brought back into our school this year. The teachers felt there needed to be stiffer requirements for students to become teacher's aids. In order to become a teacher's aid students were required to belong to this organization. As such the requirements were to teach a section in a unit and also teach a unit. The students were also supposed to prepare lesson plans, lessons, A.V. materials, etc. for their complete unit. Teaching on an individual basis was also in the plan. When the students weren't helping teach, they were to help the teachers with some of their other needs, such as putting together bulletin boards, making A.V. materials, grading papers, typing handouts, etc.

The annual project of homecoming floats was chaotic but fun, as students familiar with this ritual assisted those less experienced. Mr. Robicheau and Mrs. Dayton, ninth grade advisors, helped them to plan successful fundraisers and parties. “Cool Night,” Special Night “Cool Night” was chosen as the theme of the 1982 Junior Prom. Three shades of blue colored the false ceiling which had silver stars suspended from it. Trees blossomed in pastel shades of pink, yellow, blue, and white. The center attraction was a gazebo filled with a diversity of greenery.

Edward Delgado and Nanette Dona reigned over the Prom from a garden swing throne. The honor of attendant was given to Natalie Dayton, Freshman; Shirley Miller, Sophomore; Beth Buckley, Junior; Shauna Larson, Senior. Crown bearers were Jerry Dayton and Geana Jamison.

Panthers Hang Tough

Success is the word that describes the 1981-82 Cokeville Panther football team.

The Panthers' second season with Coach Dayton proved to be exciting, as the Panthers were rated number one in the state. Also included in the success of the team was Coach Nate, who supplied experienced advice.

Unfortunately, due to injuries and other related problems the Panthers' quest for state was squelched. However, the support of the fans and the spirit of the school proved the Panthers to be the best in the state.

This year's Homecoming brought many tears to the team and to the fans. The loss against Pinedale was painful to bear, but the Panthers gave it all they had.

Three seniors were chosen as tri-captains: Wayne Harmon, Steve Excell and Orson Nate.

This year will long be remembered as the "Black Cat Pride."

Spikers Have Esprit de Corps

Cokeville's varsity volleyball team was packed with talented and high spirited girls. All of the members were strong servers, but they each had a special part on the team too. Lisa Pope, Hollie Ferrin and Debbie Andersen were powerful spikers. In many moments, Paige Feuz and Nanette Dana were there to calm the team and cheer them on. Lorie Pope and Cheryl Kingston were always giving their best for the team in every game too. Possibly the most important asset of the team was their ability for all the girls to work together and get along with each other well. They also had an additional talent that is important but not always present and that is their ability to work together, and all be a part of the team.

well. Two or three on the team had good spikes and got better as the season went on. Linda Kleeman and Shirley Miller had consistently strong serves which led the team to victories on more than a few occasions. The underhand serves of Florence Martinez and Peggy Wixom were soft but made it over the net every time. Hollie Ferrin and Cheryl Kingston, from the Varsity Team, helped the JV team when needed and also worked to keep the spirit up. Also helping out were managers Toni Buckley and Roxzann Mitchell. They hurried around keeping Miss Kaiser's head on straight, and were very beneficial to the team. The JV had a fun season and a good record. We wish them even better luck next year.

One Starter Returning

Scott Ferguson gives the extra inch to overpower the opposition.

With much of the varsity squad gone because of graduation, Coach Dayton and Coach Nate found themselves with only one returning letterman, Wayne Harmon. The team played well, but the inexperience marred their chances for a state berth. Wayne Harmon was selected as the outstanding player for the squad as he gained all district honors.

Girls' Team Builds

The girls' basketball program was under the direction of Coach Robicheau and his assistant Linda Kiaser. The year was one of rebuilding, as the squad had many underclassmen playing for the varsity team. Debbie Andersen and Lisa Pope were the strong front line of the Panthers with Trudy Taylor as the other senior at the point guard. The team struggled through the year as they played the tough class B teams in the area. The highlights of the year were the struggles of getting reacquainted with a new coach and his ways, learning more about each girl on the team, and the progress of the younger players on the team.

Under the direction of Coach Moore and Coach Warren the matmen learned the many techniques of becoming good wrestlers.

For most of the boys, this was their first year in the wrestling program. Even though their numbers were few and they had little experience, they were able to pull through with a pretty good season. At regionals David Stafford took 2nd place, and Kenny Petersen and Tim Teichert took 3rd place. These accomplishments enabled all three of them to qualify for the state tournament.

The girls' track team was smaller in number than in previous years but nothing lacked with their spirit or the desire to win and work. In practice or meets they made track fun and exciting. They were always trying to quicken their pace and strengthen their stride, never willing to give up or settle for anything less than the best. Weather didn't affect how hard they strived or did it? One cold evening in the rain, Lisa Pope was trying to hurdle on the pavement striving to master a three-step stride, going along just great, dodging mud puddles, until she came over a hurdle to find an unexpected pothole. Coach Dayton commented, "I've never seen a harder hit, even in football. We'd better not fight the rain tonight." The girls captured second place at district behind #1 by one point. At state they placed third behind the first two teams by only a couple of points again. A fun year, full of success, was had by all.

Rick Excell reaches a new height.

Lance Fuller clears the high jump.

Boys' Track

At the state track meet, every time Lisa Pope and Trudy Taylor would get on the bus, the boys would hit a seat twice and say "All rise." Everyone would rise and applaud until the two girls were seated.

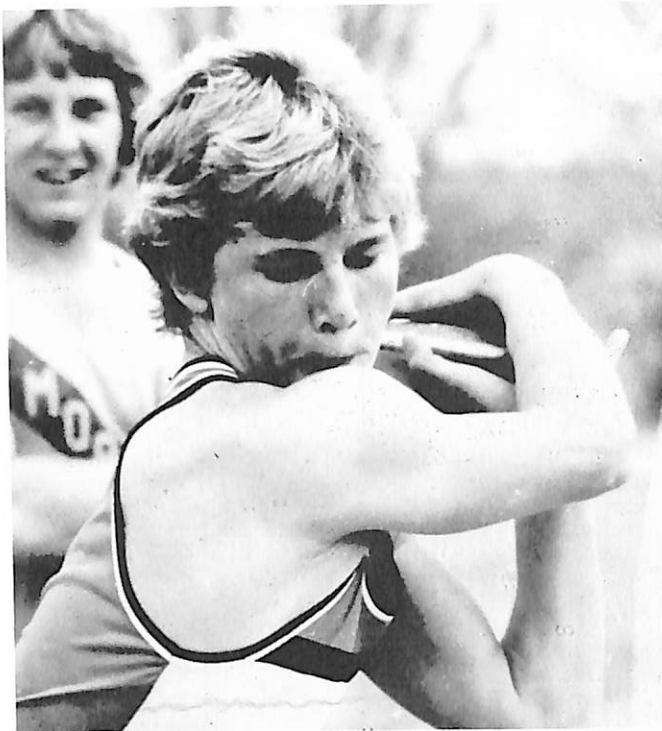

The track season was a short one because of the winter's lasting so long. With the bad weather all of the other schools' tracks were flooded. The team only went to three meets because of the tracks and so many other school activities.

The boys' team was young and had very little experience; there were only two seniors.

Steve Excell flies through the air with the greatest of ease.

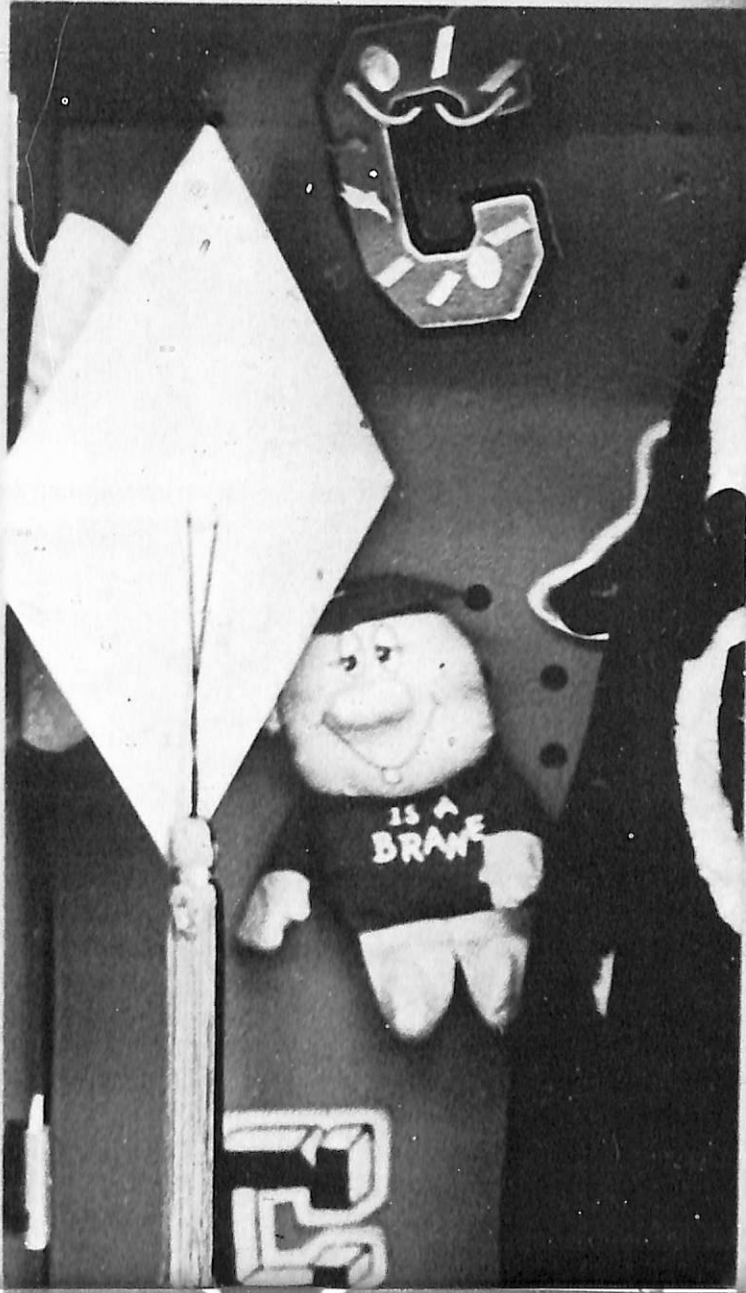

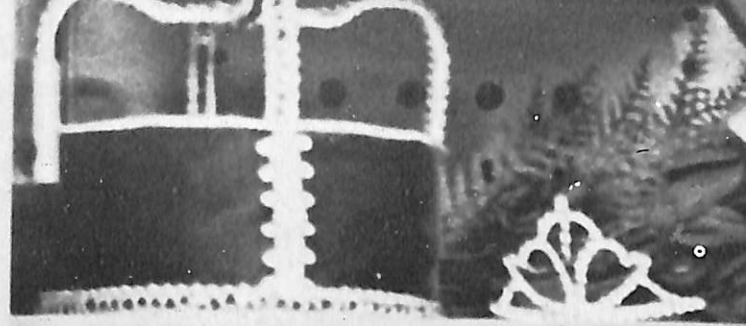

Tim Teichert winds up to throw the discus.

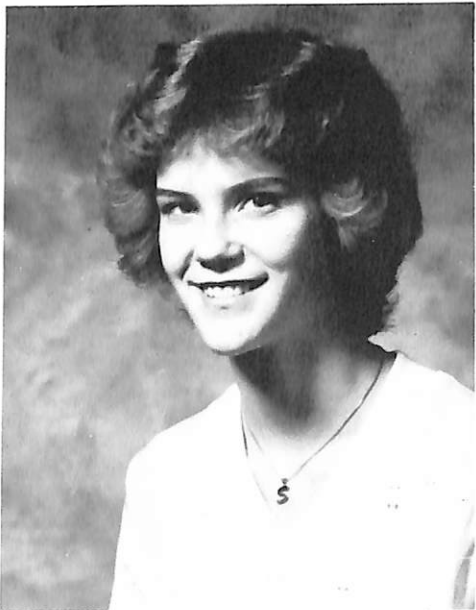

Scott Ferguson gives it his all.

8th grade float places 3rd in homecoming parade.

It is amazing what a year of experience can do. This year was much better for the 8th grade class. "This year we were much more organized and had a lot more unity in our class," commented Andra Birch. With a lot of help and work, the money making project, a magazine and record sale, came off with a success. Working hard as a class, they came up with 3rd place on their homecoming float.

A hay ride up Pine Creek to the ski area was planned. Tubing down the hill, having hot chocolate in the lodge were next on the agenda. But one thing that didn't quite cooperate with the plan was the weather (30 degrees below zero). So they took the second plan: swimming in the school pool, then eating in the Home Ec. room.

7th Grade Learn Fast

The 7th grade boys during the homecoming parade.

The 7th grades homecoming float received honorable mention.

The 7th graders started off with a slight set back. The change from being the oldest of the grade school to the youngest not only of the jr. high but also the high school was the problem, but they learned fast. They tried hard to learn and get involved. Watching the older classes was helpful. The 7th graders were well-organized. They worked together on their float and were recognized with honorable mention. They got together and came up with some good ideas to help their class earn some money and also have some fun at the same time. One of their money making projects was a junk drive; the other was selling suckers. They both proved to be quite successful.

With the help of their advisors, Miss Kaiser and Mr. Miller, they had some fun at their class parties. One Saturday morning they got up early, traveled to Bear Lake, and spent the day at the beach. When the day came to and end, everyone had had plenty of food, sand, and fun. For their second party, they decided to make some fun in the cold weather. They went tubing at test hill and drank hot chocolate to try to keep themselves warm.

Danny Mitchell shows us how it's done.

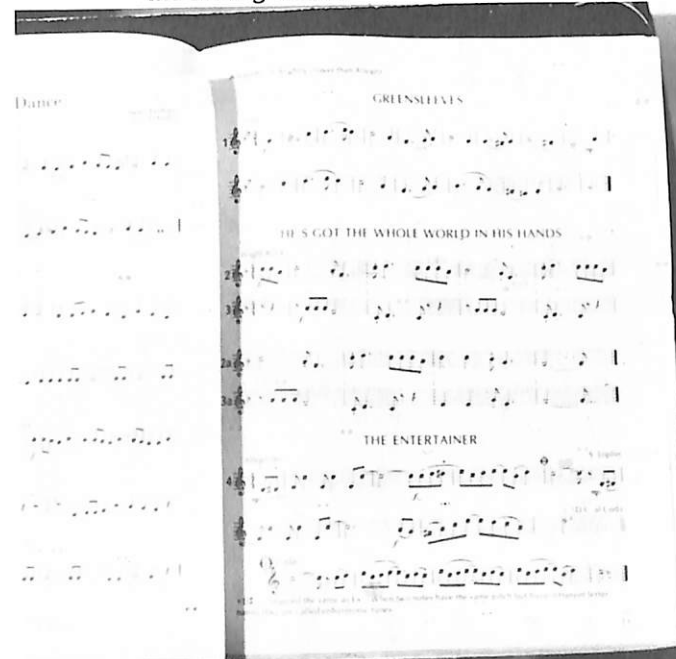

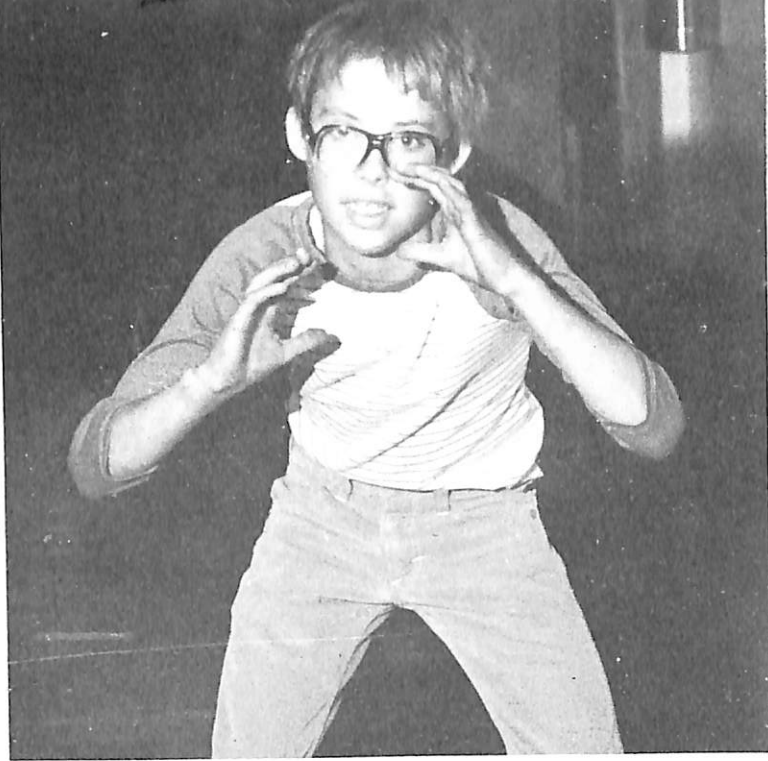

Mr. Miller seems to be pleased by the efforts of the Jr. High Band.

Sponsor Clinic

The Junior High music department sponsored the inter-school clinic. Attending were Star Valley, Big Piney, Evanston, Kemmerer, Lyman, Mt. View and Pinedale. The musicians presented a concert the evening of February 19.

The Jr. High performed a concert of their own on May 12.

Glen Prows shows how tough he really is.

Rick Nate invents a new sport: "shadow wrestling."

Jr. High Hosts Districts
