I Remember

I Remember

so vividly all of the Juicy, locker side talks
in the people-filled halls,
The same book-chasing,
heater-sitting, food-fighting halls
That were such perfect settings for the water fountain fights.

Do you remember the Nibs,
the M&M's, the Nerds
That so often bounced down the hall and usually ended up at
The authoritative shoes of Mr. Excell.

The will-he-ask me glances we exchanged beneath the Crepe paper ceiling
that swayed up and down as if breathing
For the excited anticipators that didn't dare breathe for themselves.

The time
the special someone of the week
Came over and gave you his irresistable smile;
Your cool smile back
so instantly followed by the Starry-eyed look you gave me, and the thumbs-up sign I gave you back.
And how many times did you give me your O.K. signal?

Our frantic search for the stolen note
That turned up-weeks later
in my rarely-opened math book.

"Save me a seat!" and "can I borrow your pen?" yells intermingle in my mind with Excited whisperings
behind closed doors
And secret looks which needed no words.

Can you still smell that chocolate-bottomed cake in the Home Ec. room resembling our geography class volcano?
And the toffee that slid out of the window
to the grass below.
And we foolishly ate it anyway.

Cheers, pep talks seem to echo in the Musty room with "Icy Hot" smells, once filled with pads, uniforms,
And helmets;
now void of sound
Except for the constant drip of a recently-used shower.
Anxiety and tension linger long after the game is over.

Can you forget the 8 hour trips in our
"Luxury" cruiser;
the inevitable
Break down and the
unscheduled detours?

Could anyone possibly know what memories these empty halls hold?

In my mind, they will never be empty.

Oh Dear It's Monday

Students of CHS were asked, at random, what they liked, what they didn't like, or what was special about each day of the week.

MONDAY

Merrill Buckley, Freshman: Mondays are the longest day of the week because you know you have four more days just like it to go.

Mike Kennington, Freshman: I hate Monday; you have to get up before 10:00.

Shirley Miller, Junior: I hate Mondays because I have to take a bath.

Scott Ferguson, Senior: I think they should be stricken from the calendar.

Toni Buckley, Senior: You can catch up on the gossip of the weekend.

Peggy Wixom, Kathy Nate work on next hour's assignment.

Sharlot McKinnon works on weekend homework.

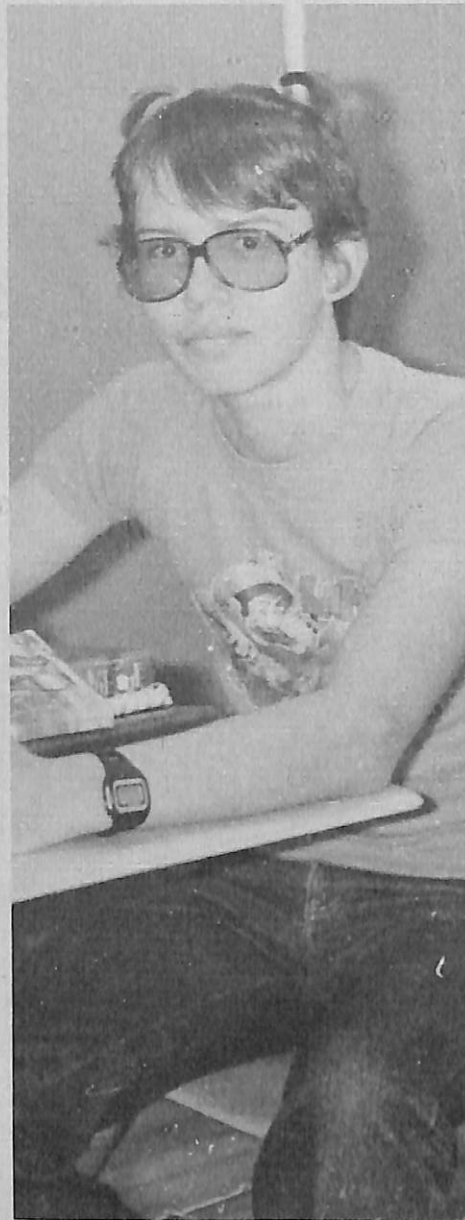

Kurt Robinson prepares for another long week.

Since there's nothing on TV, April Fox decides to sleep.

Kurt Robinson ponders upon what day of the week it is.

Scott Cook cooperates on Tuesday of Homecoming week.

Tuesdays Are Terrible

TUESDAY

Mike Kennington, Freshman: I don't like it 'cause there's nothing on T.V.

Kathy Nate, Sophomore: I hate Tuesdays because I have piano lessons.

Sally Forrest, Junior: By Tuesday I can't remember what day it is, so it doesn't matter.

Todd Hendricks, Junior: I like Tuesdays because the girls are usually happy, and that makes me happy.

Lou Ann Larson, Senior: I like Tuesdays. Tuesdays are one day that I can just let loose and just be myself.

Delbert Poll helps Sharlot McKinnon prepare for Tuesday night play practice.

8 Andra Birch spends another "blaw" Wednesday working on sets for the musical

We're Half Way There

WEDNESDAY

Merrill Buckley, Freshman: Wednesdays aren't bad, but if you didn't have them, the week wouldn't be so long.

Lisa Nostaja, Sophomore: I like Wednesday because you are starting to the end of the week and everybody is a little more perky.

Sally Forrest, Junior: Wednesday seems the farthest from Friday.

Todd Hendricks, Junior: Wednesday is like a Saturday in the middle of the week.

Just another Wednesday.

Todd Hendricks and Shane McKinnon try to fix a broken prop before Mr. Birch finds out.

Tony Buckley is in a mellow halfway-through-the-week mood.

Beth Buckley crams for a test.

We're Happy It's Thursday

THURSDAY

Merrill Buckley, Freshman: Thursdays depress me 'cause I'm always thinking it's Friday.

Stacy Taylor, Sophomore: Thursday gives me Friday to look forward to.

Sally Forrest, Junior: I like Thursday because we've almost made it by then.

Todd Hendricks, Junior: Thursday is just like Friday to me.

Shirley Miller, Junior: I like Thursday because after today, we only have one more day.

A typical Thursday afternoon.

Thank Heaven It's Friday

A typical Friday night record flop.

FRIDAY

Mike Kennington, Freshman: I like Friday; I get to stay up late.

Lisa Nostaja, Sophomore: School is out for the weekend! Hurray!

Sally Forrest, Junior: Fridays are great! There's hope at last!

Shirley Miller, Junior: I like Friday because I can look forward to a WILD AND CRAZY TIME!

Robbie Petersen, Junior: I don't care.

Shirley finishes last minute homework.

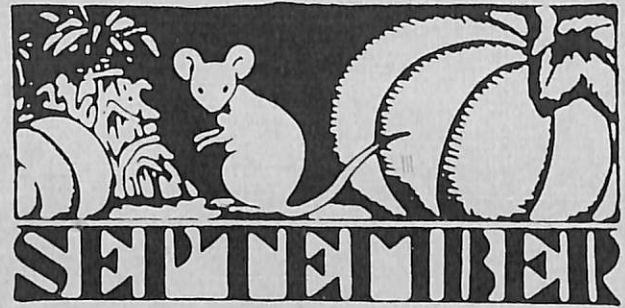

Is it almost 3:30?

Sr. Girls Found In Sr. Boys' Bedrooms

Senior girls caught in Kurt Robinson's Bedroom.

"Oh No, it's Homecoming!" This is usually one of the responses to Homecoming. You've just got into the swing of a new school year, and Homecoming hits. All of a sudden the whole town of Cokeville and everything in it has to be decorated. You think that if you see one more piece of orange, black or white paper you'll die, but there is always excitement and fun in the air, as you anxiously await all the Homecoming activities.

This year was no different, Homecoming came and went quite smoothly with all the traditional activities. There were a few changes. The Homecoming Banquet was changed to a more convenient date. Senior girls had fun decorating sheets for the Senior boys then secretly making their beds the night before the big game.

The Panthers plowed the Punchers with a score of 22-6, making the 1982 Homecoming a true success.

Seniors Sneak

At the first class meeting of the year, the seniors decided to really sneak. They weren't going to tell anyone. The plan almost worked but they did have to tell Mr. Excell. The senior class went up Smith's Fork to LouAnn Larson's house the night before the sneak with the plan to get some sleep. Nothing ever goes as planned, however, and they stayed up all night watching T.V. and talking. (At 4:00 a.m. the girls fixed breakfast, and) at 5:00 they left for Provo. The 4 hour bus trip gave them a chance to catch up on their sleep. At 9:30 a.m. the seniors went on a tour of the Osmond Studios and then went to Trafalga miniature golf course afterward.

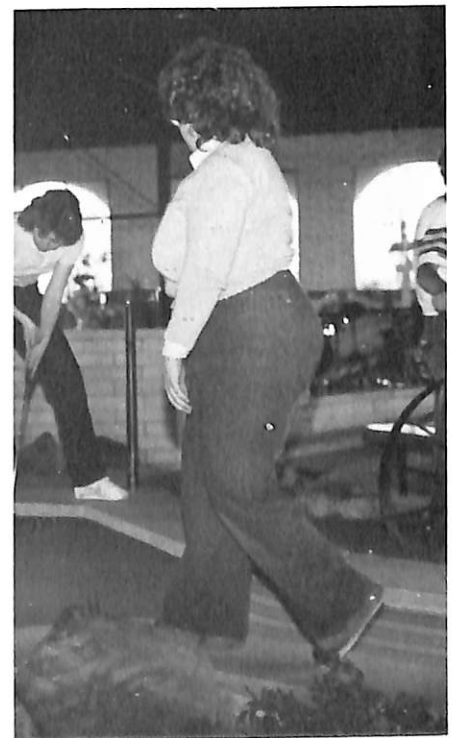

Bowling was the way they worked off their McDonalds lunch. After bowling the Seniors went to the mall where they all bought matching tee-shirts to wear to school the next day. The trip to the mall was followed by a dinner at Sizzler, and the final event of the excursion was the movie Something Wicked This Way Comes.

The musical productions class presented The Sound of Music. Usually the musical auditions were open to the high school only, but this year they were open to the grade school and the junior high also. The Von Trapp family required some younger ages, so Mr. Miller went to the grade school and junior high for the younger children of the Von Trapp Family.

Panthers can get pretty mean.

Scott Ferguson plows through.

If you had watched the boys practice before the season got underway, you would have thought they were too small to win, but when the kick-off of the first game went into the air, the Panthers played tough ball as they pulled away with a win. As the season progressed the panthers kept winning and could not be stopped until they came upon Lyman, who kept them from going to district by one point. On Homecoming the panthers had to play tough ball to beat the Big Piney Punchers 22-6.

Coach Dayton commented on the year: "The Cokeville Panthers were characterized by a quality group of young men, who dedicated themselves to working hard and improving every practice. With this attitude they became a very fine football team. We had excellent leadership from our senior class, Ken Cook, Edward Delgado, Scott Ferguson and Kurt Robinson. This team improved more than any other football team I've been associated with. With a good group of underclassmen coming back we're looking forward to next year.

Down, set, go.

Coach Teichert was the new mentor for the Jr. High School football program, and in conjunction with Coach Moore the team took on a new look. The team members began to learn and execute the same offensive and defensive plays as the high school which would make all players more effective as they moved into the senior circuit. The coaches used the games to help the player experiment as there were many position changes. This allowed each team member the opportunity to search out his strong points and to work on those abilities with the two wins the team garnered during the year along with the accomplishment of the coaches' goals the season was a success.

Linda Kleeman and Shirley Miller warm up.

The Varsity Volleyball team started out fresh with only three girls ever having the experience of playing on a varsity team, but even with the inexperience of the other team members, they gave it their all.

The girls had many secret motivations this year that seemed to keep their spirits high. With their mysterious sayings and their artistically designed volleyballs, the fans often wondered what was really in their water bottles.

The girls even decorated the score table with many of their sayings and little poems to help them on their way to victory. Some of their crazy sayings were "ying yang," "Hostess," and "Krispies." All of these had secret meanings that only the team members knew.

Coach Posey had a few comments on the team's season. She felt that the season wasn't a total loss; it provided the valuable experience the team needs to bring them to victory. She was sorry to see the seniors leave, but felt that their contribution will always be remembered.

J.V. HAS SPLIT SEASON

Volleyball tends to be an unpredictable game; this is particularly evident through the J.V. season. The Junior Varsity had its typical ups and downs but was able to maintain a split season. The frustrations of learning to play team ball and to set up the plays were eventually overcome by the sweet taste of success in accomplishing their goal. Their experience and improvement will be valuable to the program in the next season.

SUCCESSFUL YEAR

The girls show their enthusiasm after winning a game.

With a passel of talented girls joining the jr. high school volleyball teams the season took on a positive air. The excitement of coaches, players, and fans continued after the initial practices as the players fought hard to win the vast majority of their matches. The culmination of the hard work came in the district competition. The 8th grade team entered the championship bracket with a victory in their first game, but they lost a closely contested match to ruin their quest for the number one spot. The team rallied and pulled out a win against Mountain View to bring home the 3rd place trophy.

The 7th grade team stumbled during their 1st match, but they too showed good metal as the team battled back to eliminate their opposition in the next two matches. This strong showing won for the team the consolation championship.

Both trophies now grace the display case as a symbol of hard work, determination and team play.

F.H.A. RATED SUPERIOR

The Future Homemakers of America did many of the usual activities but with a slightly unusual twist. The traditional Sadie Hawkins Dance was turned into a luau where they chose a Mr. and Ms. Aloha and served fruit on a stick.

To add something new to the annual Kindergarten Christmas Party, the FHA girls made pinatas to fill with candy.

The girls did very well in their State REACH events. Danielle Dana and Debbie Vandermuss received a Top Superior in the Junior level. Shirley Miller and Roxzann Mitchell received Top Superior in the Senior level. President of FHA, Roxzann Mitchell contributed to its success.

Those rated superior are Shirley Miller, Roxzann Mitchell, Debbie Vandermuss, Danielle Dana.

FALL ACTIVITIES

The fall of 1983 followed tradition and was filled with a variety of activities.

The football team fought to a seasonal record of seven wins and one loss. The volleyball team placed third at regionals.

The Pep Club was busy decorating for Homecoming Week and preparing for basketball season.

The musical kept approximately eighty percent of the student body occupied for over two months.

In September, the Cokeville Volunteer Fire Department presented a fire safety assembly. Students were given the opportunity to extinguish a fire while wearing complete turn out gear.

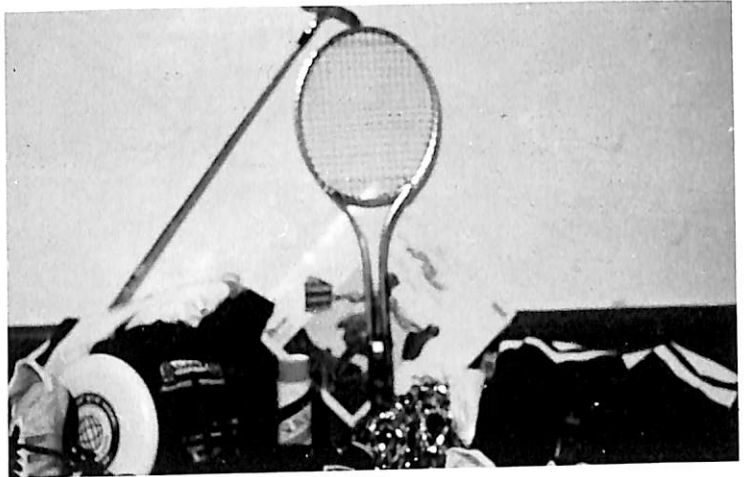

On October 28, Mr. Jack Lythgoe, a hypnotist, visited CHS. He entranced several members of the audience, both on stage and off.

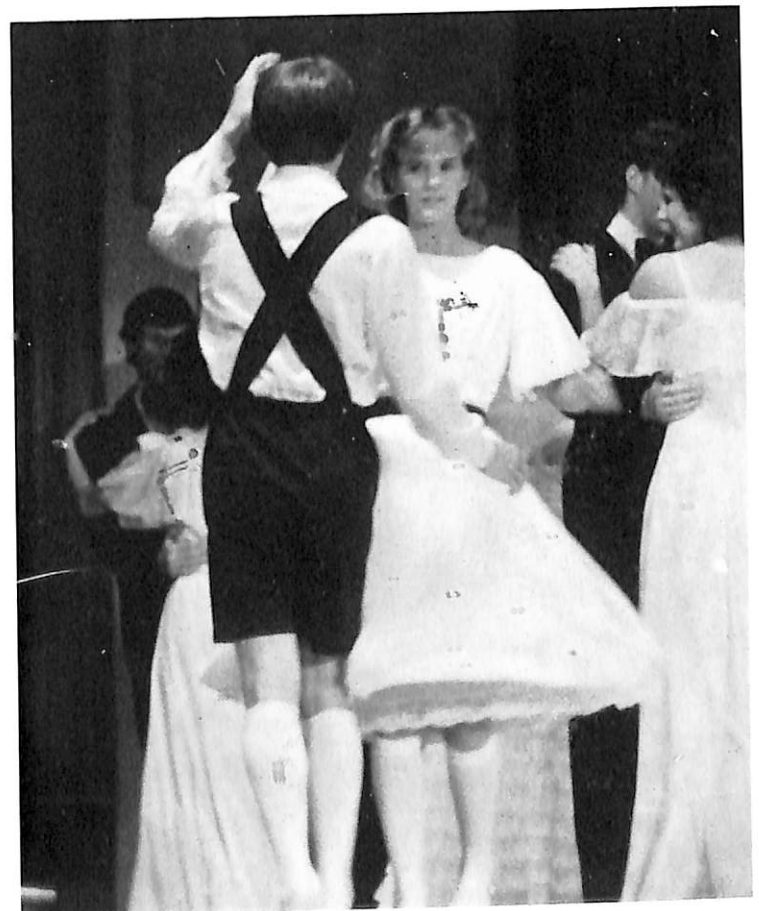

One of Edward Delgado's fall activities was learning his new combination.

Sharlot McKinnon attempted to fire up the crowds at football pep rallies.

The basketball season started out with a lot of question marks. The team knew that because of their lack of height they would have to compensate in other ways, such as, quickness and smart ball playing. These skills helped them achieve their record of twelve wins and nine losses.

After the season got under way the team felt that they could accomplish their goals if they put their minds to it.

This fact was proven at district when the boys were able to beat Snake River for the district championship and advance to the state finals in Laramie.

At state, the boys had a tough break during the first game against Byron. They were able to fight their way back by beating Tensleep and Lagrange for the consolation championship trophy.

J.V. BOYS HAVE WINNING SEASON

The J.V. boys' basketball team had a winning season. They were able to win eleven out of their sixteen games.

The freshman and sophomore boys were able to gain even more experience than ever before because they had the opportunity to go to other schools, such as, Kemmerer and South Rich and play additional games besides their normal J.V. ones.

Although nothing out of the ordinary occurred throughout the season, the boys felt that they really enjoyed participating in the sport of basketball and learned something about working as a team.

At an assembly, Willie Martinez presents the trophy to the student body.

The junior high boys were coached by Briant Teichert and Dennis Nate. The coaching of these two men enabled the boys to learn techniques that helped them in gaining many victories.

Throughout their season, the 8th grade boys were able to play well enough that they pulled through with a winning record — four wins and two losses. They also were able to receive the third place trophy at their tournament in Jackson.

The 7th grade accomplishments of the season can be shown by looking at their record of five wins and three losses. Although the boys had a tough break at the tournament, they had a successful year to remember.

GIRLS GO TO STATE

The many long hours of practice under the stern eye of Coach Briant Teichert, paid off at Regionals, when Cokeville beat Encampment for second place and a trip to state tournament. This was the first time in six years that the CHS Girls' Basketball team has gone to state tournament.

They had an unencouraging regular season but at regionals they finally got fired up and pulled together and played as a unit.

LouAnn Larson, the only senior on the team, was captain. Mrs. Posey was the assistant coach.

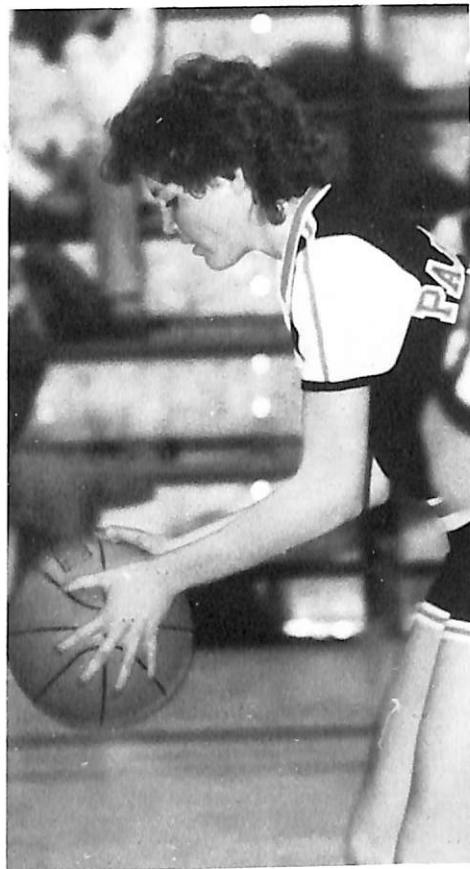

Team managers were Toni Buckley and Sally Forrest. Statisticians were Terry Stonecypher and Alta Feller.

J.V. Basketball

The members of the Junior Varsity Girls' Basketball team gained valuable experience needed to have a winning team next year. They gained the experience through substituting for the Varsity. The members of the Junior Varsity who did not also play Varsity traveled to Regionals to help cheer the Varsity on to victory. The sportsmanlike conduct of the team was an asset to Cokeville Schools this season and will continue to be in years to come. The Junior Varsity was under the direction of Coach Linda Posey.

There were only 7 of them that walked into the gym for the Regional Wrestling Tournament. "No threat" the other teams may have thought. Those 7 wrestlers:

Tedd Patterson	127
Kenny Petersen	132
Troy Holden	138
Allan Brooks	145
David Stafford	HW

left with the respect of the competing teams.

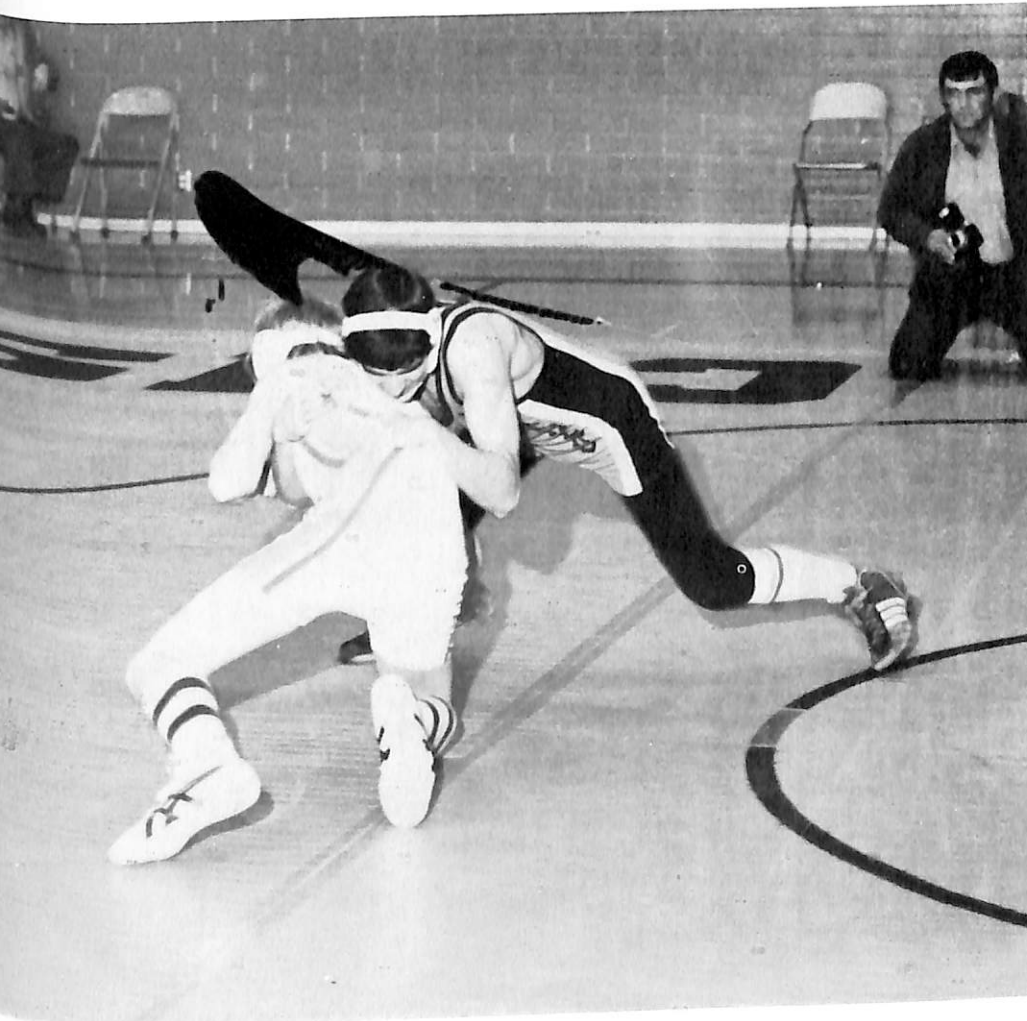

Three wrestlers, David Stafford, Kenny Petersen, and Bryan Dayton qualified to go to state competition and may have heard the same as they entered that gym, too, but Cokeville was certainly represented well as the three chalked up 42 team points. Stafford went on to win second place in his weight division and Petersen took fourth in his own weight class.

Jr. High Wrestling

"The team participated in many invitationals during the season where many of them placed every time. Says Coach Dallas Warren, "They worked hard and paid the price to be winners. They have great potential to make a good varsity wrestling team in the future."

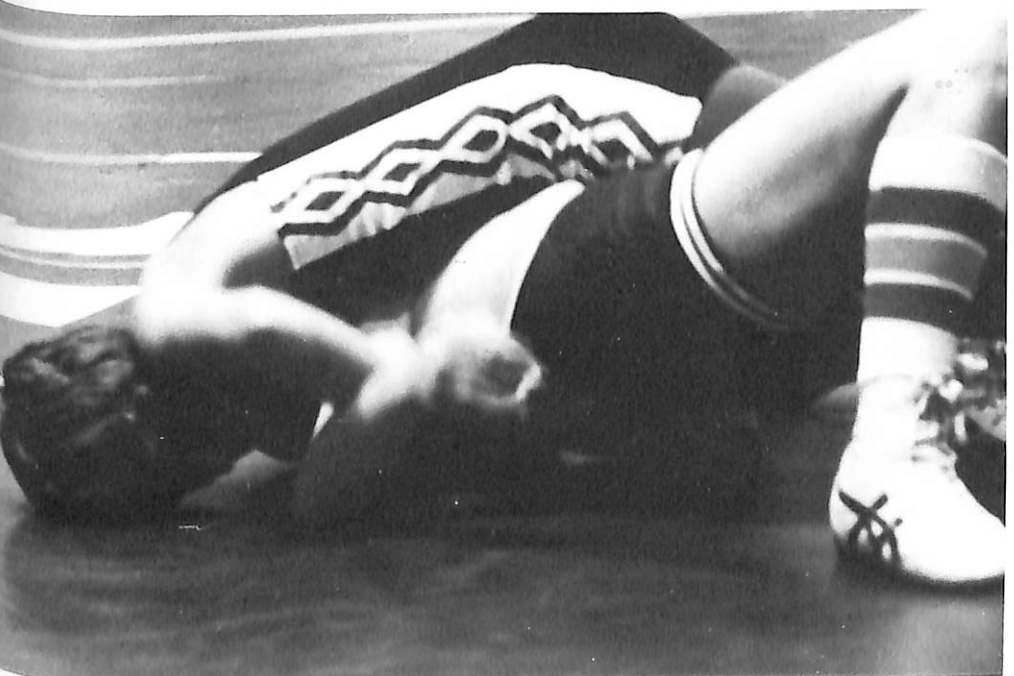

The results of their Regionals held in Evanston, verify that. Kevin Thornock took 2nd in his weight division, Aaron Metclafe — 1st, and Bridger Feuz — 3rd.

Danny Moore struggles to the mat.

After All That We've Been Through

The last big high school dance for the class of 1983. Never again will they worry about getting decorations on time, planning the color scheme, and trying to keep it a secret from the underclassmen. The theme of the Senior Ball expressed all this: 'After All That We've Been Through.'

The dance was decorated in burgundy, pink, and white. White pillars adorned with metallic hearts, framed the entrance to the auditorium. Suspended from a 'tent' ceiling was a mirrored, revolving ball. A white gazebo, laced with pink and red blinking lights, was the setting for pictures.

Kenneth Cook and Karen Wilde reigned over the Senior Ball.

Approximately 50 couples danced to the music of Catalyst.

Anne Dayton and Lisa Nostaja cheer the boys on to a victory.

All of the cheerleaders worked extra hard to help strengthen the spirit at C.H.S. Before most of the games they had pep rallies to boost the spirit of the pep club and team members. They could also be seen at each game or match cheering with great pride.

The Varsity Cheerleaders even broke tradition by changing their uniforms. Instead of the same old sweaters, the girls ordered classy new vests adding some needed variety to the cheerleaders' wardrobe.

Anne Dayton, a senior cheerleader, summed up the cheering experience: "Representing C.H.S. throughout the high school years has been a great honor and wonderful experience for me. Cheerleading is not all fun and games. It's a lot of hard work, but I enjoyed it immensely."

Pep Club Goes To State

Pep Club cheered with mixed emotions.

Dissappointment showed after first State loss.

Concern is shown by Peggy Wixom.

While Mary Larson yelled, Shirley Miller prayed for a miracle

Under the capable leadership of Nanette Dana, Karen Wilde, Annette Bartschi, and Shirley Miller, the Pep Club cheered its way through an exiting football season and State basketball competition.

Many long hours were spent in preparing for Homecoming Week, as the halls, auditorium and town windows testified. The dance was a success as dancers of all ages moved to the beat. The Pep Club members voted Kurt Robinson to reign over the festivities as King.

The Senior basketball players, Lyn Weston, Ken Cook, Scott Ferguson and Kurt Robinson were honored at their "last home game." Managers David Stafford and Hugo Loperena along with cheerleader Anne Dayton were also given recognition by the Pep Club.

The girls gave of their time to sell concessions and clean up afterwards at each home game in order to raise funds. With this money they were able to travel to Laramie to support the basketball team in their State play and help bring home the consolation trophy.

The Pep Club always looked classy in their uniforms, consisting of white blouse, black vest, black or white pants and orange ribbon.

The Pep Club is a spirited organization which is dedicated to the preservation of the Panther Pulse.

The Dirty Dozen

The class of 1984 is known as the "dirty dozen." As Todd left, Sherry came, so, the number remained constant.

The Junior class went to Sweetwater for their class party September 18. The day was spent in the sun, fighting a naval war in canoes, swimming in both the pool and the lake, and competing in a miniature golf tournament — Kevin won; Suzanne lost and still owes the other competitors a pop. After lunch they played frisbee football. The boys won 36-6 even though they were outnumbered 2 to 1.

The one moneymaking project the Juniors had was a combined cake auction and ham/turkey raffle.

On May 7 the Juniors roller-skated in Kemmerer after watching the Kemmerer Invitational track meet.

Somewhere In Time

It took many hours of decoration and planning for the 1983 Junior Prom to finally come together. Against all odds, spilled paint, knocked over store fronts, walked-on crepe paper, stubborn staplers, and a sometimes less than enthusiastic group of Juniors, it all fell into place April 30.

A turn of the century town decorated the walls of the auditorium. The establishments were: LaFave's le Fashiones, the Petersen Precinct, the Posey Post Office, the Forrest Penny Arcade, Sherie's Flowers and Candies, Stonecypher and Daughters, Attorneys At Law, Chris's Chronicle, Dimond Trust, the Smith Cinema, Uncle Jack's Praying Shack, Sharlot's Depot and the Petersen Palace. A park framed the doorway to dawn's Dance Hall. Sundaes and candy sticks were served in Shirley's Parlour.

The floor show of the 1983 Junior Prom strayed from the established norm. The girls kicked their way through a can-can and the boys soft-shoed to "Tea For Two." The Juniors and their escorts danced to the theme song "Somewhere In Time," after the coronation.

Reigning over the festivities were Sharlot McKinnon, Queen, and Robbie Petersen, King. Attending were Cindy Wixom, freshman, Sivi Dayton, sophomore, Shirley Miller, Junior, and Toni Buckley, senior.

The band was Freelance, from Salt Lake City, Utah.

SECOND

Kurt Robinson flies through the air.

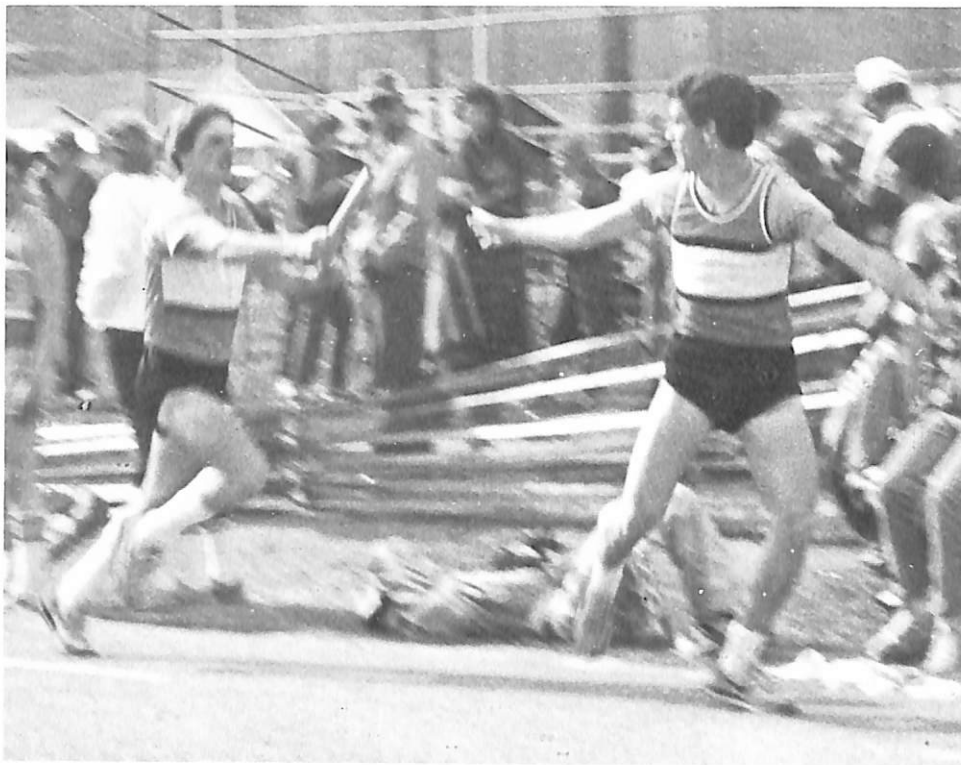

Edward Delgado in the blocks.

Mike Kennington sprints to the finish in spite of the cold.

The boys' track team had a very large number out which enabled most of the freshmen the privilege of going to district and state. They had a lot of success at district placing second in the meet. The 400 meter relay took first at district and third at state, and the mile relay took first at district and fourth at state. Edward Delgado was the state champion triple jumper.

DELGADO

Kenny Petersen hands-off to Edward Delgado.

Blair Robinson shows good form.

Brian Toomer leaps into action.

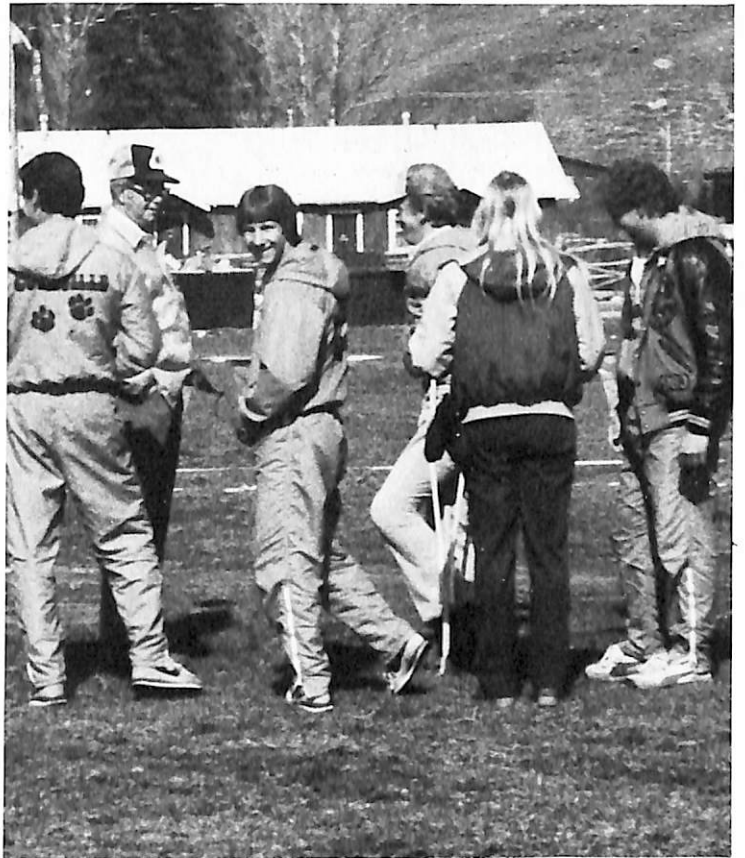

Rick Excell flies over the hurdle.

TAKES STATE

Edward Delgado took state in the triple jump.

Second

Suzanne Petersen pulls ahead.

Sivi Dayton hurries to stay in the lead.

Cheryl Kingston takes a break between her races.

The girls did very well for only having seven girls out. Proof of this fact was their taking second place at district and fourth place at state.

The girls always had to take blankets and their winter coats in order to keep warm at the meets. There was only one track meet that was warm the whole year. Everyone got burned so badly that they ended up with blisters. District was changed to Jackson from Kemmerer due to the snow and cold weather.

Of the seven girls that went out for track, six went to state. The 800 meter relay took first at district and fourth at state. The 400 meter relay took second at district and fourth at state.

Bad Weather

Lorie Pope places second in the discus at district.

Enhances The Season

Sivi Dayton clears the high bar.

Coach Dayton was the track coach.

Sivi Dayton received the Outstanding-track award.

HOME EC

The Home Economics department indeed showed a changed atmosphere with many needed expansions. Three microwave ovens were put into use, introducing the students to a different method of cooking. And a food locker with a key, which of course, only Mrs. Dayton had possession of. This put an abrupt halt to any sneaking of goodies or even an innocent taste test.

Kurt Robinson anxiously awaits lunch.

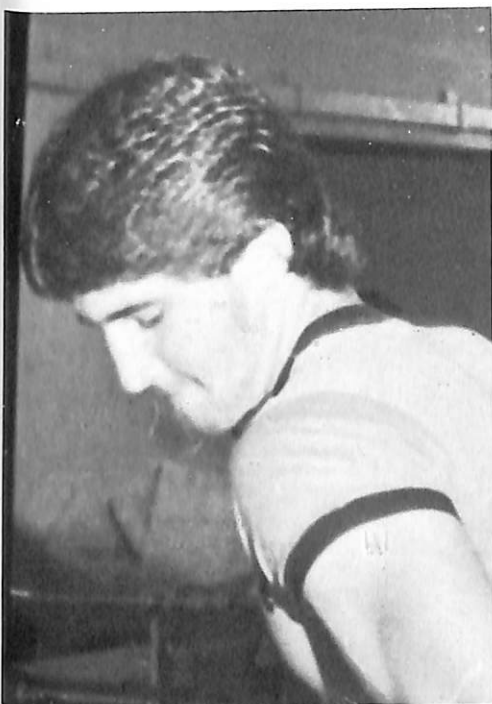

Lorie Pope begins another project.

Shane McKinnon gets caught licking his spoon.

A familiar sight in the home ec room.

Allan Brooks redecorates the shop.

Kenny Petersen explains his next move.

SHOP

Bryan Dayton works on his cabinet.

June Marie Weston was the only girl in shop this year.

MATH

Math students participated in something new this year. Mr. Robicheau took 19 students, 15 junior high and 4 high school, to a math competition at the Western Wyoming College in Rock Springs. They competed in a series of five tests with 1000 points possible. No one placed, but all felt it was a valuable learning experience.

Algebra students try to understand a new concept.

Math isn't the only thing on Lisa Nostaja's mind.

Mr. Robicheau makes learning fun.

PHYSIOLOGY

Mr. Forrest demonstrates a neck brace.

Earth Science students pay attention in class.

Roxzann Mitchell and Cheryl Kingston take a test on the technique of CPR.

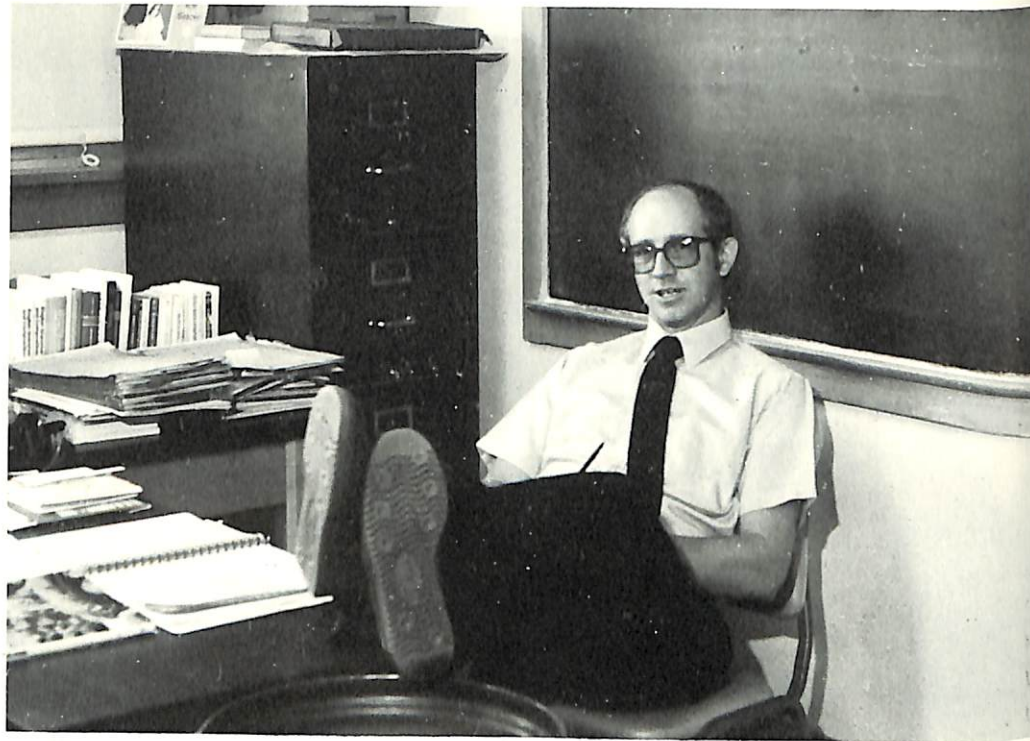

Physiology students kept busy with many activities. They learned about the heart and its functions by dissecting a heart. They visited the ambulance to tie in with their emergency care unit. During this unit, all students participated and were tested on their ability to perform CPR (Cardio Pulmonary Resuscitation).

Earth Science students took time out to learn about the process of surveying. They gathered information from the school grounds until bad weather spoiled their work.

ENGLISH

The senior English class had the opportunity to take two trips which helped them in their studies. The first trip was to Provo to gather information for their research papers. Although they spent many long hours in the BYU library, they always found time for fun by going roller-skating and to a movie. The second trip helped the class to gain a better knowledge of the works of Shakespeare. They went to Provo and attended a production of "A Midsummer Night's Dream."

Mr. Birch takes a well earned break.

Jenny Dayton concentrates on her English test.

SOCIAL STUDIES

Mr. Metcalfe keeps his class under strict control.

Mr. Metcalfe explains the situation to Paul Bartschi.

Linda Kleeman, Kathy Nate, Peggy Wixom, and Paul Bartschi participated in the Wyoming Legislature.

The Wyoming history class, along with studying their usual unit on the early American Indians, had a new unit on energy. This unit enabled them to visit the power plant near Kemmerer and learn how it operates.

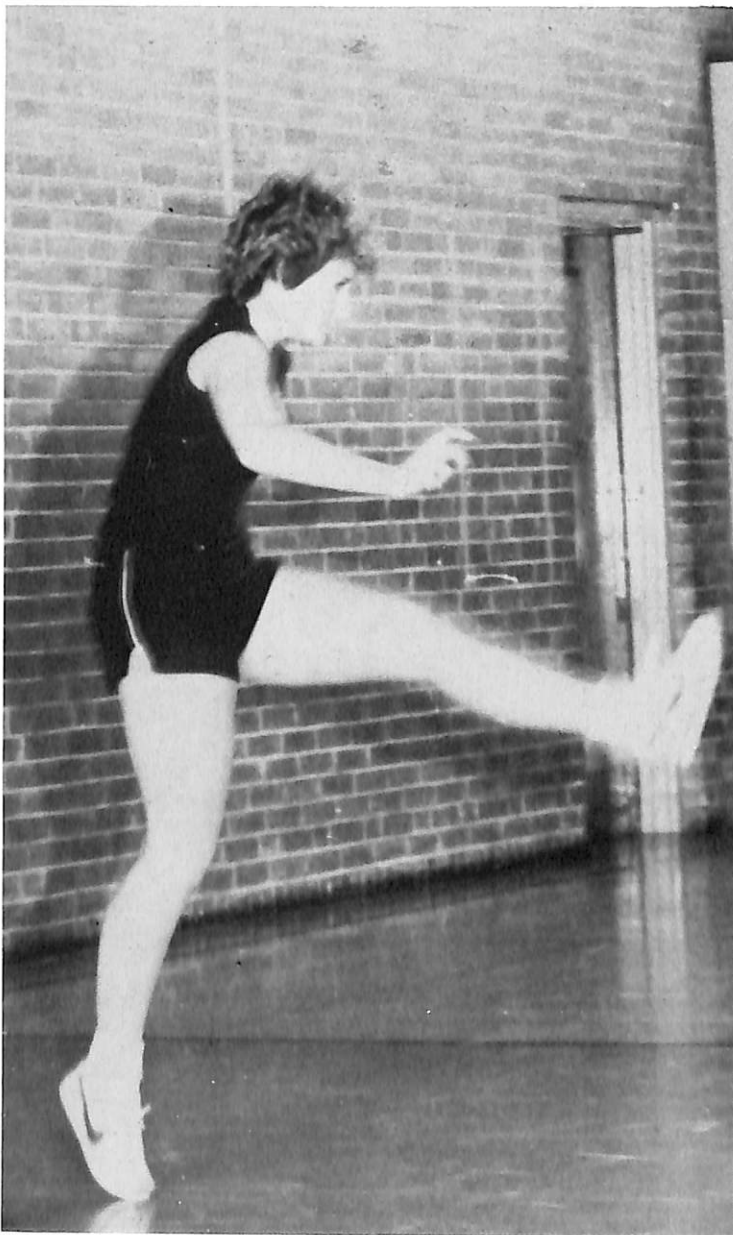

Four students in the world government class got a first hand look at how our Wyoming legislature really runs. They each spent a month in Cheyenne working at the capital. Peggy Wixom and Kathy Nate were chosen to work as pages for all of the senators, and Paul Bartschi and Linda Kleeman were interns for Senator Clyde D. Wolfley.

GIRLS' P.E.

The girls' physical education agenda this year was, as usual, a competition to keep one step ahead of Mrs. Posey. With a new variety of activities, the girls always found it exciting and challenging to whip up a heated physical match against Mrs. Posey, with defeat always on their minds.

During the winter the girls' P.E. classes played hockey.

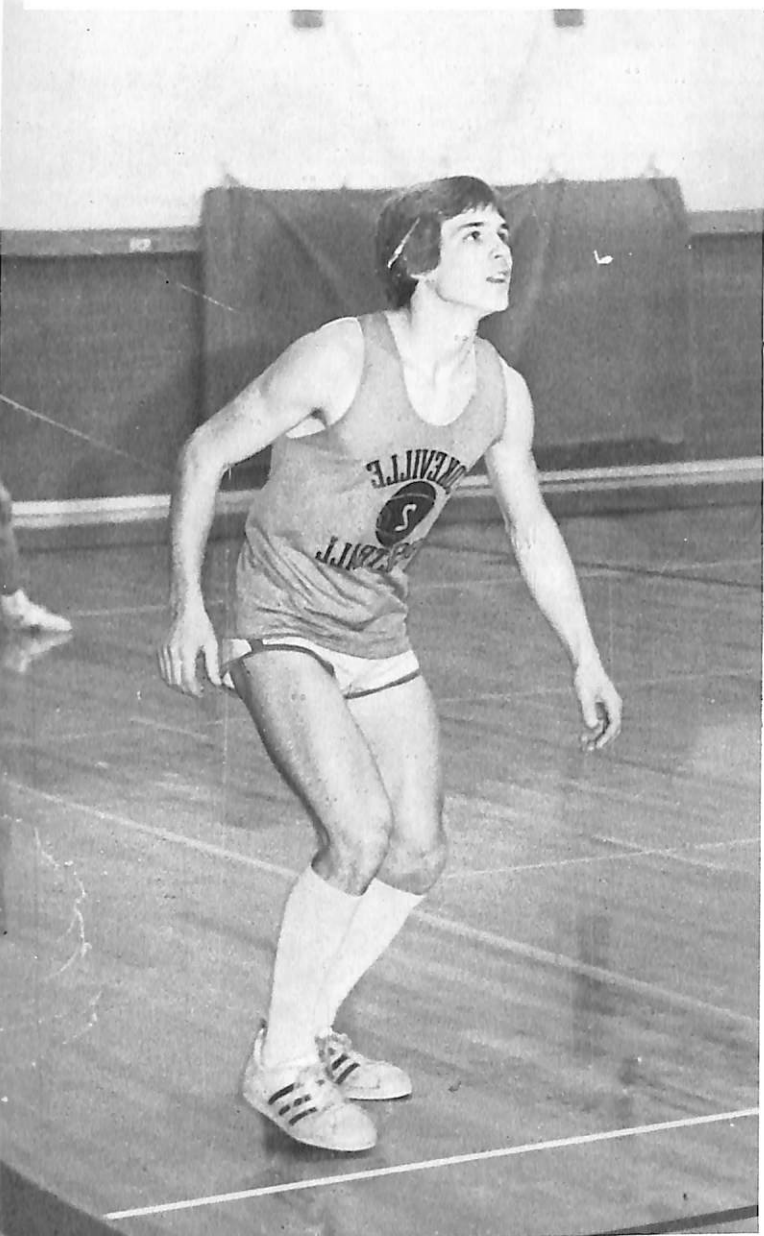

Natalie Dayton flashes her coppertone tan.

Amy Dimond runs to get open.

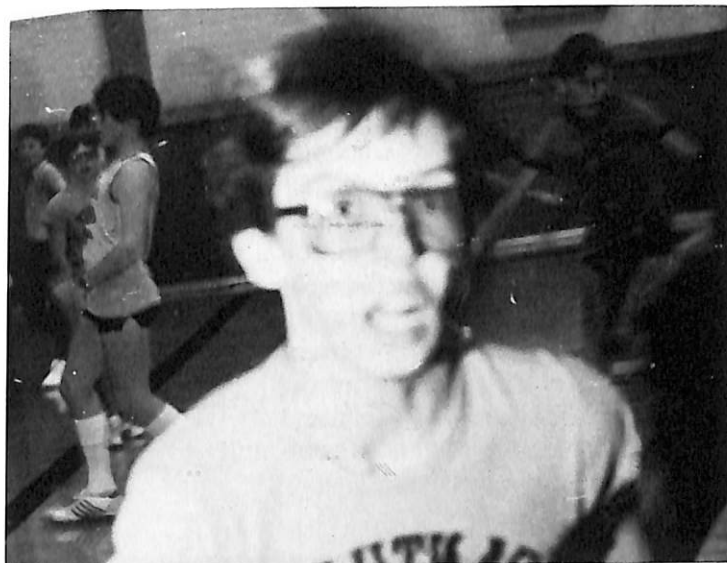

Which way did they go? Which way did they go?

Kenny Petersen keeps his eye on the ball.

Hugo Loperena enjoys P.E.

Scott Cook practices his coordination drills.

Todd Hendricks strikes out again.

BOYS' P.E.

The P.E. classes helped in bringing to Cokeville a new form of awesome muscles — bulging bodies and great strength being Coach Todd Dayton's major concern. The boys' P.E. class consisted of lifting weights three times each and every week, contributing greatly to our athletic success and also helped prepare the boys for the annual weight lifting competition held at the end of the school year.

BUSINESS AS USUAL

The Business department went on as usual. The type students typed, the computer students programmed, the accounting students calculated, and the shorthand students took dictation. Students worked under the direction of Mr. Taylor, who has taught at Cokeville High for 6 years.

Mr. Taylor is a well-liked teacher with lots of advice. In fact, if you walked into his room at just the right time you might catch a very interesting discussion between students and teacher, but most of the time the business room is silent and filled with students diligently learning the skills of big business.

Mike Kennington finds Mary Larson more interesting than typing.

Mr. Taylor takes a break.

Lou Ann Larson works hard in Computer Programming.

Concentration is known by Andra Birch.

Robby Taylor and Dawn Patterson hurry to finish their assignment.

David Stafford, Kenny Petersen, Chris Thornock, and Delbert Poll were participants in the roдео regionals.

New Drivers' Ed. Car.

DRIVERS' ED.

Pilons, sirens, red flashing lights. You may have wondered what was happening in our driver's ed. class! CHS got involved in some new things this year, one of which was the Driver's Excellence Roдео. This roдео tested the driving skills including everything from parallel parking to winding through a serpentine in reverse. Four representatives from our school — David Stafford, Kenny Petersen, Chris Thornock, Delbert Poll — went on to regionals, and David made fourth at state.

Students also participated in mock arrests as part of their driving education. Procedures for parking violations and other small offenses were presented to each student.

In all of the activities, driving was learned through personal experiences.

Drivers' Ed. students concentrate on class work.

Mr. Mitchell teaches good driving skills.

Student Council

Rick Excell pays close attention.

LouAnn Larson types student council minutes.

Student body officers were on top of things.

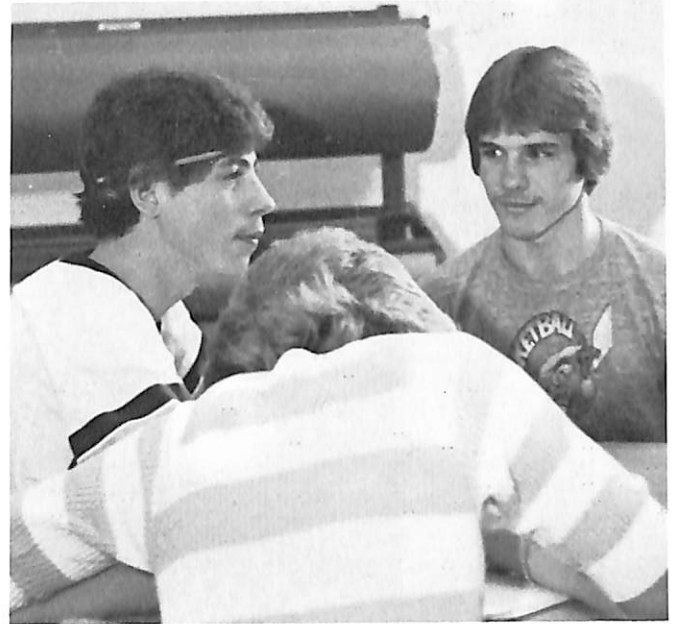

Kenny Petersen enjoys making morning announcements.

Changes Constitution

Roxzann Mitchell shows great interest.

Kenny Petersen listens when Paul Bartschi speaks.

Paul Bartschi reads the minutes of the meeting.

Mr. Excell and Paul Bartschi discuss play day.

The student council was able to bring about many changes within the constitution this year. Most of these changes were concerning the by-law on cheerleading tryouts. The council decided that many adjustments were in order.

Another major change was made within the constitution itself. This change was that no seniors will be allowed to vote in major elections. After the council had a long discussion on this matter, it was decided that the student body be allowed to vote on it. The amendment passed with more than 75% majority.

AWARDS

Kurt Robinson is awarded the outstanding offensive football player.

Linda Kleeman receives the most improved volleyball player award.

ASSEMBLY

Toni Buckley receives the Best Supporting Actress Award.

Kenneth Cook receives the Citizenship Award.

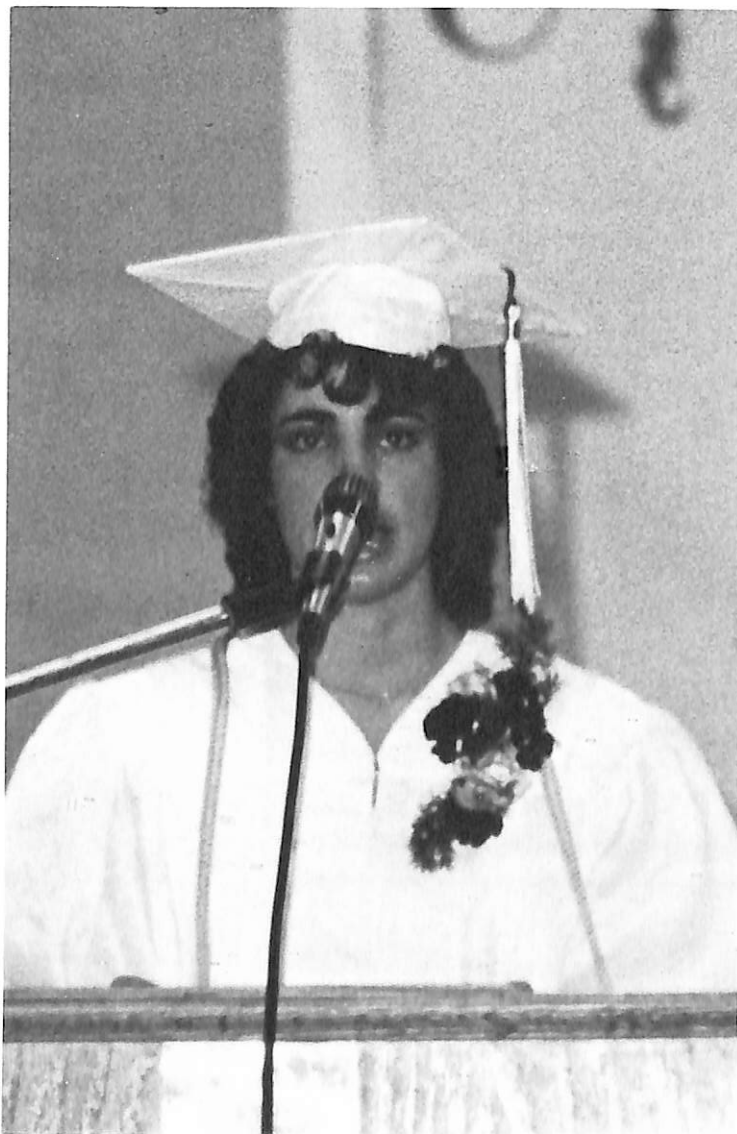

Terry Stonecypher receives the Math Award.

Seniors Play Musical Chairs

The class of 1983 marched into the gym with dignity and took their places. Much to the dismay of the girls, one of their chairs was missing and they had to double up. The error was quickly corrected and the rest of evening went as scheduled. The salutatory and valedictory addresses were given, Jim Brandenburg spoke, Roxzann and Paul said the prayers, and the diplomas were presented.

Lou Ann Larson, Salutatorian.

Karen Wilde, Valedictorian.

Toni Buckley, Kirt Robinson, Beth Buckley and Hugo Loperena display mixed emotions about graduating.

Paul Bartschi receives his diploma.

Jim Brandenburg, commencement speaker.

Cheryl Kingston marches solemnly.

She'll Be Missed

When students enter the cafeteria in the fall of 1983, a familiar sight will be missing. Adeline Johnson is resigning this spring after forty-two years of service in the Cokeville School's Cafeteria.

Adeline cooked for almost half of those forty-two years in what she called the "hole-in-the-ground" (the basement cafeteria under the old Cokeville School).

Even the faculty and staff will miss her; especially for the between class munching to tide them over until lunchtime.

Adeline was honored at the end of the year, faculty dinner. She was presented with an encribed silver tray. A program designed in her behalf included the song "Sweet Adeline" which was sung by a faculty barbershop quartet.

Adeline, Sweet Adeline, we'll miss you.

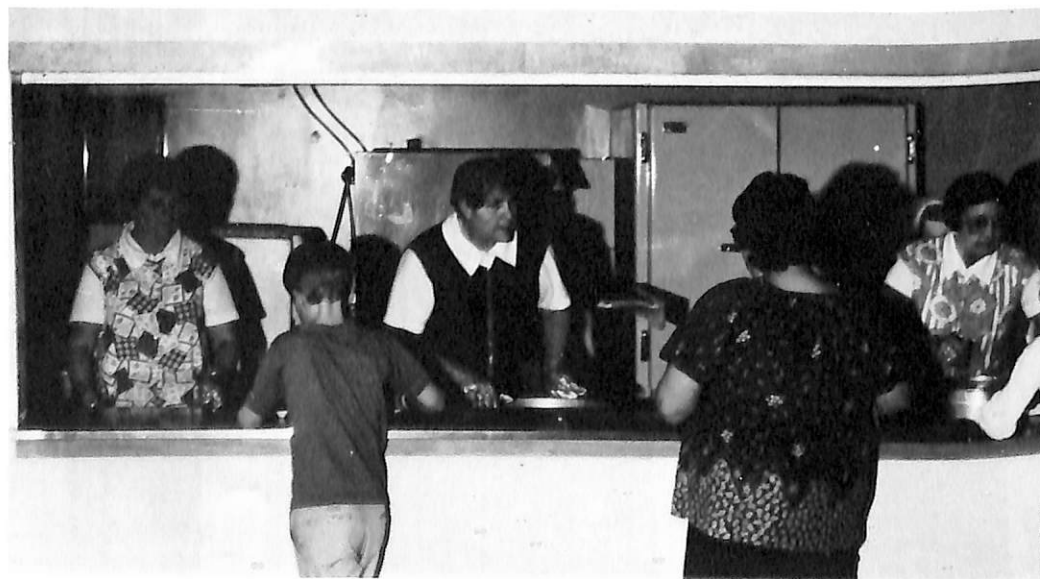

Adeline Johnson

Adeline cleans up.

Maureen Taylor, Inez Pearson, Adeline Johnson.

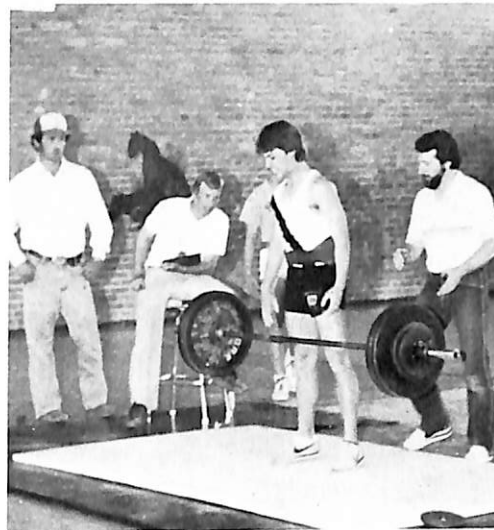

The lunch stampede.

SPRING ACTIVITIES

Nanette Dana puts a new twist in her campaign speech.

Rick Excell participates in weight lifting contest.

Seniors play miniature golf on their sneak.

Girls' quartet performs on band tour.

Spring is always full of activities. Most of the high school participated in the music tour. The band and choir traveled and performed at Rockland, Westside, and Bancroft.

Student body elections came and everyone was busy making posters, handing out badges and anxiously awaiting the outcome. P.E. boys participated in a weight lifting contest. Seniors went on their sneak and had a great time.

Everyone had fun on play day playing baseball, soccer and volleyball. They finished off the day with a big water fight. Everyone went home tired, wet, and a little sunburned, but it was worth it.

Anne Dayton and Lorie Pope work frantically to meet the final deadline.

The End

By now we, the staff, are sure that you, the reader have realized that the theme of the 1983 Rambouillet is TIME. Time never stands still and neither does CHS. We hope that we have accurately captured the many activities and memories of 1983 in the pages of this book. It has been a tough job trying to meet deadlines and managing to photograph everything that takes place in and around CHS every day of the year. When our first deadline rolled around we almost gave up hope of ever finishing this book on time. But, thanks to Mr. Birch's constant "encouragement," we made it by the skin of our teeth. We hope that you find this book, enjoyable, easy to understand, and full of memories of 1983.
